Through tears, joy we

Claimed Our Spot

A year full of changes was what 1984 and 1985 was for Delta students. Because of new laws and regulations set up by state school officials, the school day had a new meaning. With the idea that students needed more educational time, many extra-curricular activities were cut back. The typical life wasn't all that typical with changes in the administration and the length and number of convocations and homecoming activities. Mr. Dave Land resigned his varsity spot and stepped up to principal. Mr. Chuck DeNeal was given the coaching position. Mr. Land took a new job at Ball State in the middle of the year. Mr. Calvin Gullion became acting principal.

The changes didn't seem to put a damper on the spirits of students. The football, basketball, swimming and wrestling teams had an outstanding year. Academically the students achieved many honors. Organizations such as DECA had a year of success too. Freshman got adjusted to high school life, the sophomores and juniors grew up a little and the seniors matured into adults ready to face their future.

Though the changes were hard on everyone, the school stayed together and made it through another year. Students took pride in school and claimed their spot.

Is this the usual way a student body president dresses? No, senior Jeff Weaver is only "playing the part of a nerd." (jb)

Senior Craig Campbell claims his spot by proudly displaying his first place medal and plaque from the state wrestling meet. (bl)

CLAIMING OUR SPOT

Whether it was planning a dance or going out on the weekends, students were always found involved in school activities. High spots were claimed by many. The football team won homecoming, the Selectones placed fourth at Bishop Luers and many others received honors outside of school. Students and teachers alike got involved in the donkey basketball game. Having different hairstyles and playing Joe Cool in sunglasses were also ways students claimed their spot. The seniors took their annual spring break in Florida, while others enjoyed staying home and spending time with a boyfriend or girlfriend. There are always those who spent their time making all the dances a success. With all the activities and opportunities provided, students always found a way to get involved and claim their spot.

Eagles surf to victory at homecoming

Although the Delta tradition of having an annual parade with floats from each class ended this year, homecoming week was still an overall success. Part of the fun of homecoming week is students being able to participate in the many activities offered outside of school as well as being able to express their creativity on the assigned dress up days. Rock-n-roll day, beach day, college day, and blue and gold day were fun for everyone, but the most popular idea proved to be nerd day. This was the day when many students drug out their parents old clothes and wore glasses with tape between the eyes. The homecoming queen candidates for the senior class were Natalie Boyd, Jill Kanedy, Julie Slusher, and Amy Prewett. The king candidates were Jeff Beall, Rodney Cross, David Edwards and Kevin Owen. The honor of being crowned king and queen was passed on to Valerie Helms and Terry Faust.

Rosy cheeked Susan Dewey, Kathy Evans, Amy Shank, Julie Pavey, and Brent Fallon find a way to show their enthusiasm and keep warm at the same time.

The Golden Eagle Band and Guard perform during half time for a cold, but enthusiastic audience.

Showing enthusiasm and raising the crowd's spirits during a football game isn't all that easy, but the Dare Eagle makes it look fun.

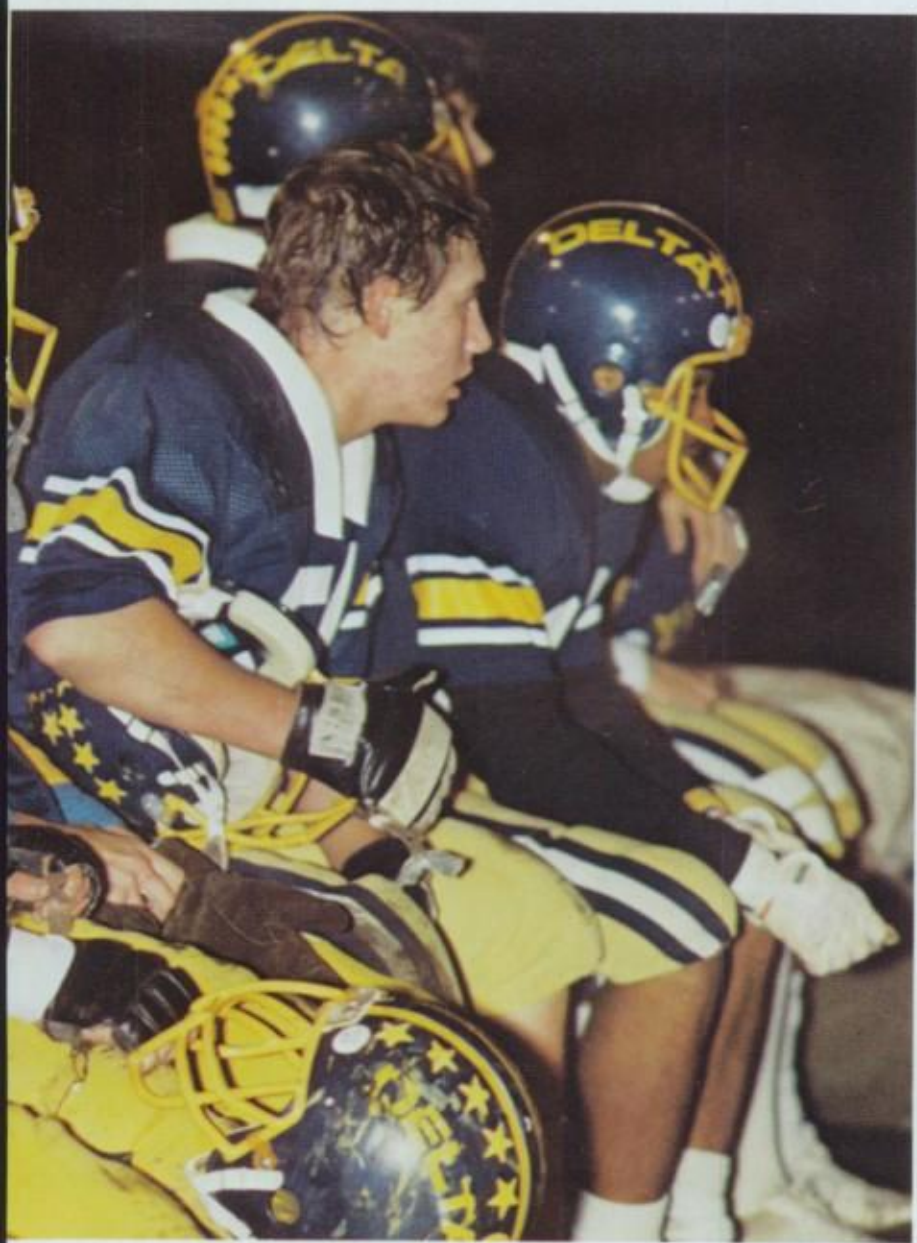

It's all smiles for seniors Valerie Helms and Terry Faust as they are crowned homecoming king and queen.

Chuck DeNeal, in his first year as head coach, instructs the team on the sidelines during a time out.

The banners, created by Tri Gi and French Club, are displayed hanging from the fence of the football stadium.

Junior Trent McCormick roots from the sidelines as he waits for the defense to recover the ball.

Wearing football jerseys in the spirit of homecoming week, the Selectones perform before the game and fire up the crowd.

Preparing to kick a field goal, senior Brian Cross gets warmed up while injured Jeff Beall gives his support to the team.

Homecoming offers a variety of activities

Student activities took place on both Wednesday and Thursday nights of homecoming week from 6:30 until 9:00 each night. Some of the activities offered were the traditional powderpuff football for girls, the tug of war, and the bonfire. Many new activities were added like the water balloon toss, round and round, back-to-back, the three-legged race, and the creation of banners by each class. The sophomores won the contest with their banner best expressing the theme of "Surfin' DHS." The football team was victorious over Alexandria which helped improve the spirits of the students. The game was followed by a dance sponsored by student council which ended an overall fun-filled week for all students involved.

Not only did the regular cheerleaders fire up the crowd at the bonfire, but a few out of the ordinary senior guys also added to the fun.

Robbie Jones and Trent Sanders, juniors, strike a macho appearance in their Hawaiian attire and sunglasses on beach day. (kk)

Freshman Jennifer Shank tries to restrain herself from jumping in and helping the freshmen tuggers pull to a victory.

A person doesn't have to be six feet tall and weigh two hundred pounds to play this kind of football. The sophomore powderpuff team prepares for an offensive play as center Sherry Hineman gets ready to hike the ball to quarterback Jennifer Petty.

Nerds have taken over, and senior David Edwards and junior Lori Green trade in their football and cheerleading uniforms for the new look. (jb)

Junior Joyce Rainey contributes to the enthusiasm of homecoming week by blowing up balloons to be given out and released at the game. (kk)

Junior Mark Ferguson puts an extra effort into his pull, straining his muscles and hoping for a win.

Summer brings hard work, honor

Starting off the first contest with rain seemed to be a symbol for what was to come later in August at the annual State Fair Contest. The Delta Golden Eagle Band and Guard sat on the buses in their uniforms for over three hours anticipating a break in the rain. Even though the rain dampened the track as well as the crowd's enthusiasm, the rain could not dampen the spirits of the summer band. The band finished with ninth place and earned a spot in the prestigious top ten for the second year in a row. Band camp was held at Concordia Theological Seminary in Fort Wayne, and junior Lori Tomlin commented on the fun of having water fights during the free time. The band was successful in beating out several of its tough competitors of the past years. Another big event occurring during the summer was the band's performance at the Indiana High School All-Star Football game in the Hoosier Dome. The summer band was the largest ever with 130 volunteer members. Bill Cain, band director, commented, "The summer was a very exciting and rewarding experience. The kids were very supportive of each other and were always working to improve the band." As the summer ended on a sad note, guard director Steve Landon said a farewell to the band and guard members, and everyone looked forward to another fun-filled year of band.

Band members Susan Valentine and Richard Moore give each other a hug for good luck before the state competition.

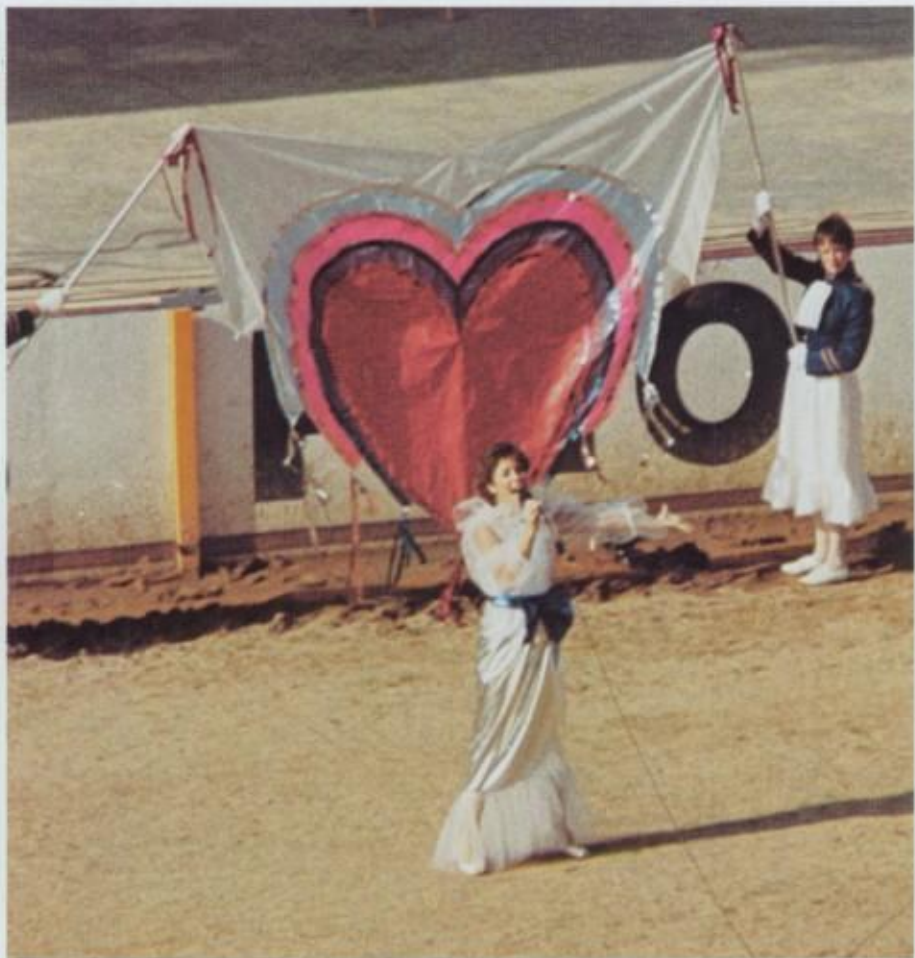

Junior Aaron Smith displays his rolled pants in an effort to keep his outfit spotless before a performance.

Delta band members had the honor of being the first band to perform in the Hoosier Dome in Indianapolis this summer.

Singer Becky Jones belts out a song as she gives it her all for the audience during state competition.

The summer guard members show perfect positioning as well as perfect smiles, while performing in the state contest.

Seniors Shelina Isom and Eric Wasson goof off before a performance as Shelina flashes her garter.

Summer band members march in unison and think over their routine in the few minutes before competition.

Guard director Steve Landon assists freshman Lee Ann Bell by helping her tape her gloves.

Band director Bill Cain blows his whistle while instructing the band members before the big event of competing in state.

Sadies brings out new loves, new styles

Once a year in November, girls get a chance to see that it's not all that easy to ask out the guy of their dreams! It takes a lot of nerve and courage, and even praying doesn't hurt. The fun part comes when he says, "Sure, I'd love to go to Sadies with you!" Then the girls have to worry about expenses such as shirts, pictures, bids, and anything else. This year many couples broke away from the traditional flannel shirts and jeans. Couples wore what was in style and what was comfortable. Mini skirts, parachute pants, camouflage, and many other types of clothing could be seen at the dance. A favorite routine for many attending the Sadies was going to the dance, watching the movie, THE OUTSIDERS, going out for a bite to eat, and then finishing off the evening at a friend's house. High Voltage did an excellent job of providing the music for Sadies. A favorite group dance was "The Bird," made popular by the movie, PURPLE RAIN. Many students joined in the fun by flapping their arms and moving their feet to the beat. Sadies will long be remembered by many Delta students. There will always be those special pictures to bring back memories.

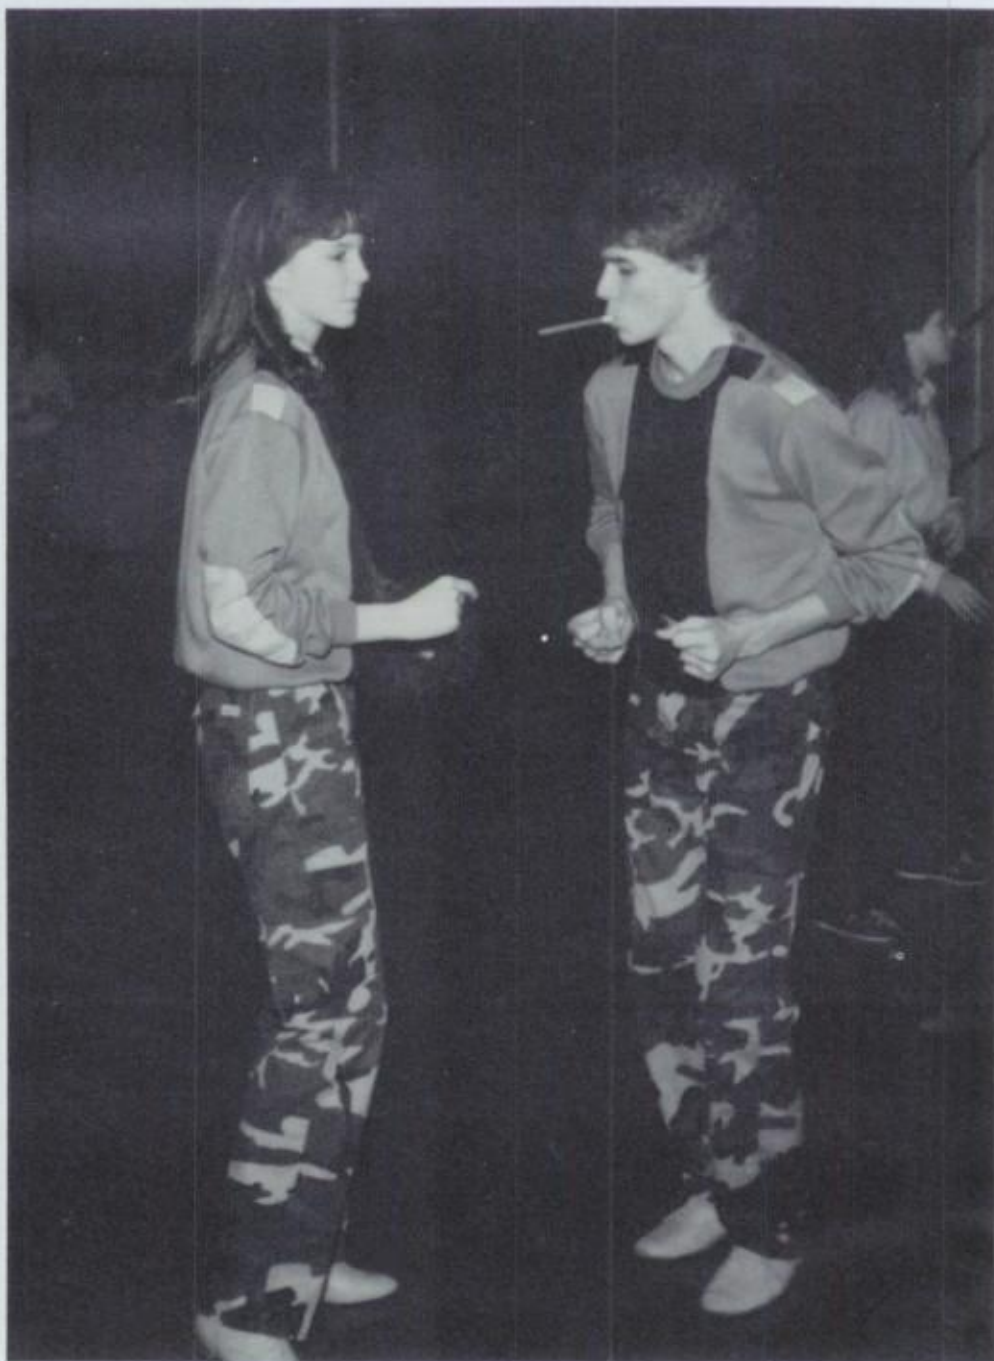

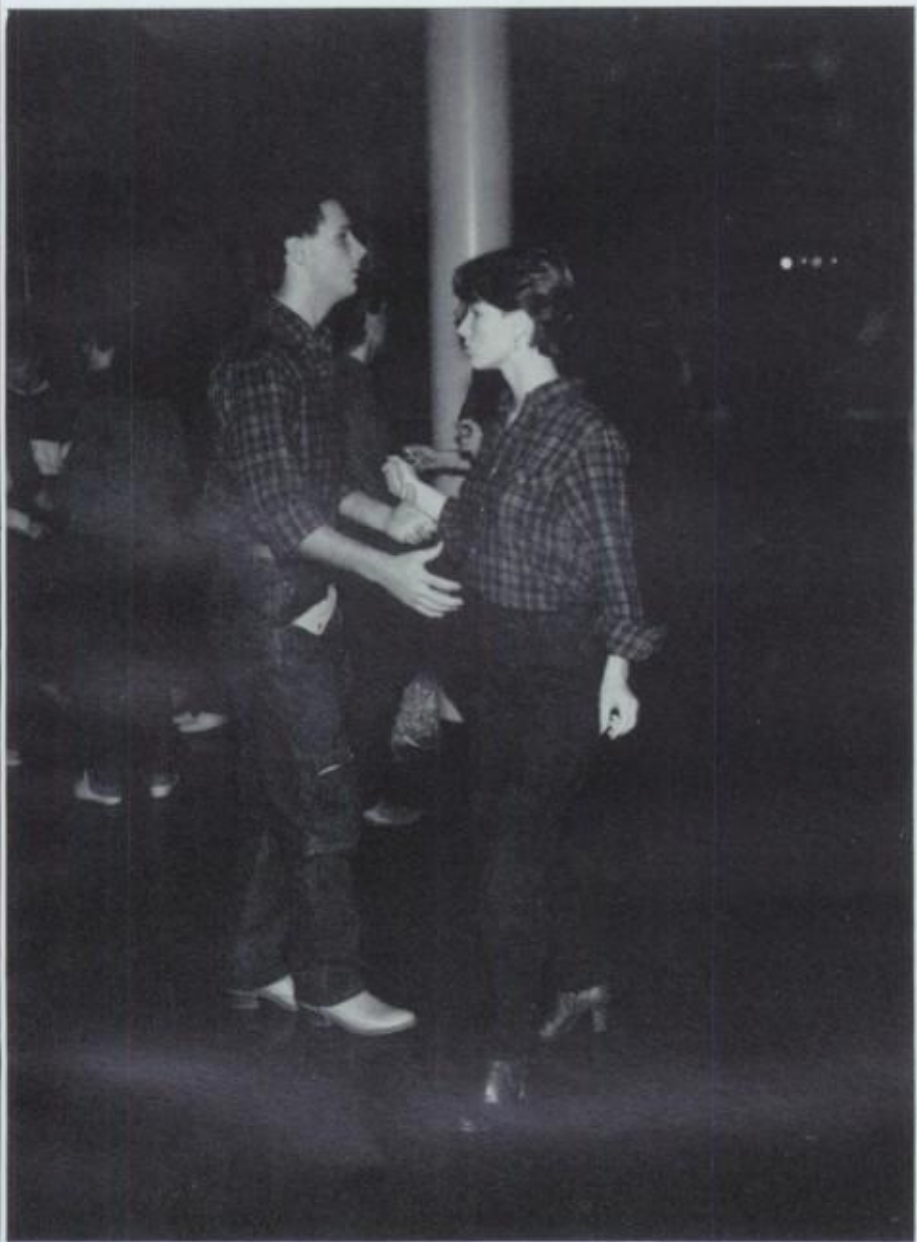

The new dance craze, "The Bird," proved to be a popular activity that most couples participated in at the Sadies.

Wedding bells were ringing for senior Dawn Watson and her date as Michelle Resler and her "future husband" anticipate saying their vows to each other.

Dressed conventionally in plaid, senior Steve Williams and junior Staci LaRue dance to the sounds of High Voltage.

Freshmen Joy Reynard and Jennie White help themselves to the refreshments offered at the food table.

Couples get comfortable and relax as they prepare for the movie, THE OUTSIDERS to be shown in the auditorium.

The outfits of Cindy Melvin, junior, and Brad Haggard, senior, seem to go together as well as they do.

Romantic atmosphere at Sweetheart Ball

On February 22, 1985, love was in the air as the Sweetheart Ball took place in the commons. It was a special night when everyone who attended dressed semi-formally and brought their favorite valentine to dance the night away with. The Future Homemakers of America did a wonderful job of decorating the school for another successful dance. Valentine balloons, paper confetti hearts and shades of pink and red lit up the entire commons. The group "What's Next?" provided live music for students to enjoy. The class personalities were freshman Kim Shaffer, sophomore Teresa Hoffman, junior Wendy Davis and senior Mike Hughes. Representing their classes were freshman Jennifer McAdams, sophomore Lisa Hughes, and junior Brenda Beall. The queen candidates included seniors Dawn Watson, Sonya Spurlin, Sarah Hughes, Stephanie Narducci and Pam Carr. Sarah Hughes was crowned the queen of the ball.

It's easy to see that the atmosphere was enchanting and romantic. Junior Jeff Fields and sophomore Kelli Callahan smile as they approach the commons.

Sweetheart Ball candidates Pam Carr, Stephanie Narducci, Sonya Spurlin, Sarah Hughes and Dawn Watson are in good spirits.

The FHA wouldn't stand for simple paper plates and cups! They went all out to display elegance and romance.

It's the whole gang! The class representatives, personalities and their dates smile pretty as they pose for a group picture.

Freshman personality Kim Shaffer is escorted by Chris Lash as she descends the staircase to greet an awaiting audience.

With "The Night of January 16th" . . .

Audience decides

What was a combination of mystery, excitement, and suspense? The Drama Club's production of THE NIGHT OF JANUARY 16TH fit that description pretty closely. The fact that no one knew the verdict until the play's end built a great amount of suspense throughout the play. The play involved a woman named Karen Andre, who was on trial for the murder of Bjorn Faulkner. She was being defended by District Attorney Stevens. They were opposed by the prosecutor, Flint. As the story progressed, a variety of witnesses spoke on behalf of Karen Andre, while at the same time, many witnesses spoke against her in determination of seeing her behind bars. The play became highly suspenseful as new facts were brought out by the witnesses. Tension was also increased between the lawyers, as the audience waived back and forth in their own opinion of the verdict. The play was very unique in that the verdict was decided by a jury of twelve members, selected from the audience. The selected jury, after seeing all of the evidence and hearing the testimonies, gave the verdict of not guilty. The Drama Club worked on the play for one month prior to its solo performance. The cast included approximately 25 members, and the talented actors and actresses rehearsed hard after school in preparation for the show. Junior Jennie Robinson, who portrayed District Attorney Stevens, commented, "I enjoyed doing the play, and I'd love to see Delta become really active in dramatics."

Cast: First Row — B. Brower, C. Brookbank, K. Gray, J. Justice, K. Najarian, A. Hansan, G. Williams. Second Row — A. Phillips, K. Cartwright, T. Ashland. Third Row — S. Brown, C. Collins, C. Freel, J. Robinson, B. Pulley, M. Murray, M. Graham, J. Greer. Fourth Row — N. Adams, C. Kausky, S. Burford, M. Modzelewski, J. Jones, P. Boudrot, T. Smith, J. Ingram.

Jennie Robinson, portraying District Attorney Stevens, speaks on her client's behalf as Brian Pulley, Paul Boudrot and Kim Cartwright listen attentively.

Depicting one of four secretaries in the play, freshman Stacie Brown interprets the testimonies given by the many lawyers and witnesses.

Displaying a bit of nervous concentration, the character of Roberta, portrayed by junior Monica Modzelewski, thinks over her testimony.

Smiles are shown on the faces of sophomore Kim Cartwright and junior Jennie Robinson as they hear the jury's decision of not guilty.

Brian Pulley and Paul Boudrot take a breather, as they relax and listen to a testimony given by one of the many witnesses.

As Christeena Collins takes the witness stand, her character, Mrs. Hutchins, is questioned by Jennie Robinson while Paul Boudrot, portraying the judge, sits and listens.

Selectones capture 4th at Bishop Luers

The Selectones received an impressive fourth place finish in the Bishop Luers Contest at Fort Wayne this year. This was an improvement from last year's results, and it stemmed from hard work and dedication. During the week long snow break, the Selectones weren't resting easy. They were at the school practicing about eight hours a day for the nation wide competition. The hard work definitely paid off. The talented singers were in second place after the morning competition with three points separating them from Carmel High School. The stage crew consisting of ten members won best technical crew. The Selectones were busy all year singing for churches, nursing homes, business meetings, and competitions. There were 40 members in Selectones without including the many people who helped the group by playing instruments, setting stages and directing the set. The Selectones looked sharp in tuxedos for the guys and fushia dresses with rhinestones for the girls. The group also had an opportunity to go to St. Louis to compete in the National Midwest Showchoir Competition. It was a very satisfying and successful year for the Selectones, and they proved to be one of the hardest working and entertaining groups at Delta.

Hand gestures are an important means of expression. Sophomore Julie Moeller and freshman Matt Murray sing with their hands up. (ja)

Performing before the school helped the Selectones prepare for the Bishop Luer's Competition. (dgrn)

What a load off their feet! Junior Brent Clevenger and other Selectone members sit to sing "Get Happy." (ja)

Selectone members have to be able to sing and dance well. The Selectone men perform in unison. (dgrn)

Total success for the first Snowball dance

The first Snowball dance was held this year, turning the commons area into a great winter wonderland. The event was created by Writer's Block and gave students a chance to get together before their Christmas vacation. While most students brought dates, some students chose the option of going with their friends. Many students were surprised and possibly embarrassed when Santa Claus paid them a visit. Because the dance was semi-formal, the girls wore their nicest Christmasy outfits, and the guys looked sharp in their dress clothes. Students could get their picture taken with their date, by themselves, with friends, or even with Saint Nick himself in a beautiful wintery setting. The dance took place on December 21 and was open to all Delta students. The atmosphere was cheerful and warm, as students talked, laughed, and danced before their Christmas vacation.

Students hit the dance floor as they show off their best moves.

Couples dance the night away at the first Snowball dance.

As the music slows down, freshman Stacie Brown and her date share a romantic dance together.

In the true spirit of Christmas, Santa Claus paid a visit to the Snowball, and his presence seemed to embarrass a few people.

Tim Buchanan and his date create a special moment between them as they slow dance.

Couples enjoy just sitting at tables and talking as much as dancing to the music.

Junior Jeff Brewer and senior Tami Boyle seem to belong together as they take a break from dancing to drink some punch and quietly enjoy each other's company.

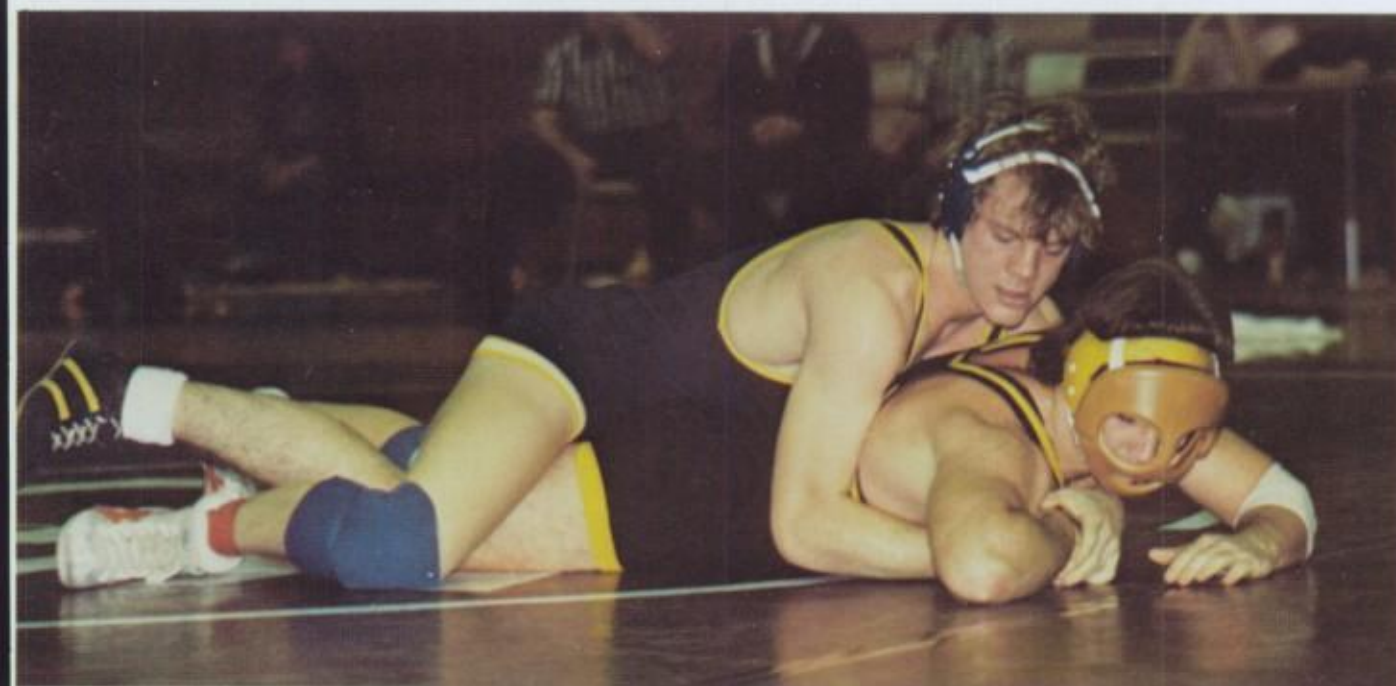

The great Eagle wrestling dynasty lives on We'd just begun in '81'; we made it through in '82'; we had another victory in '83'; we added one more in '84'; we kept it alive in '85'! We are the mighty Delta Eagles who have captured the state crown in wrestling for five consecutive years. This is a feat that has never been matched by any other school in Indiana history. Delta wrestling is a dynasty. Coach Don Patton, who has coached Delta through all five state titles, will be the first to tell you that it's not easy to get to the top and that it's even harder to stay there. Patton was lucky enough to have a great coaching staff of Don Puckett and Dennis Lewis to back him up. What makes a championship team? A good system of young wrestlers, great coaches, gifted athletes, proper training, and mostly years and years of hard work make the team successful. The long hours in the gym have definitely paid off for this year's team. They were sectional, regional, semi-state and, of course, state champions. Delta took seven wrestlers to the state finals held this year in New Castle. They were sophomore Andy Parkison at 98 pounds, freshman David Suits at 105 pounds, senior Craig Campbell at 119 pounds, junior Mark Crowe at 138 pounds, sophomore Randal Hayes at 145 pounds, junior Jeff Brewer at 167 pounds, and junior Trent McCormick at 185 pounds. McCormick finished in fourth place, Parkison wrestled his way to a third place victory, and Campbell, during his fourth trip to the state finals, captured the 119 pound title. Campbell was also honored with the Ward E. Brown award for mental attitude, but that wasn't all for Campbell because he was chosen the outstanding wrestler of the meet. What an honor for Delta to have such great athletes representing them. In the years to come Delta will keep producing top quality wrestlers who will keep the Eagles on top of the rankings following in the tradition. We kept it alive in '85', now we're fighting for number six in '86'.

They're all champs! The state wrestlers show both excitement and exhaustion as they display the state championship trophy.

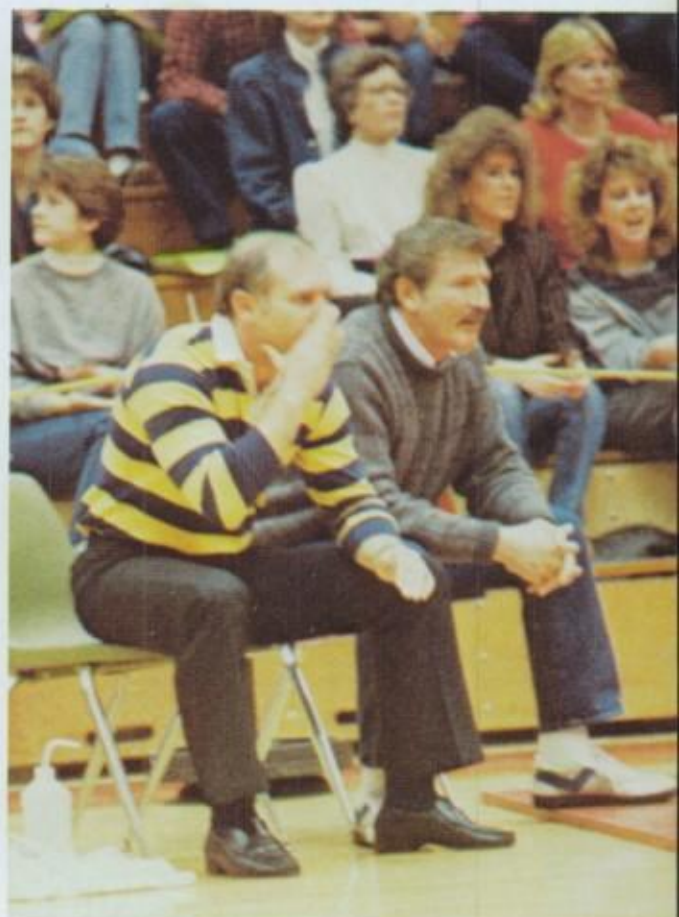

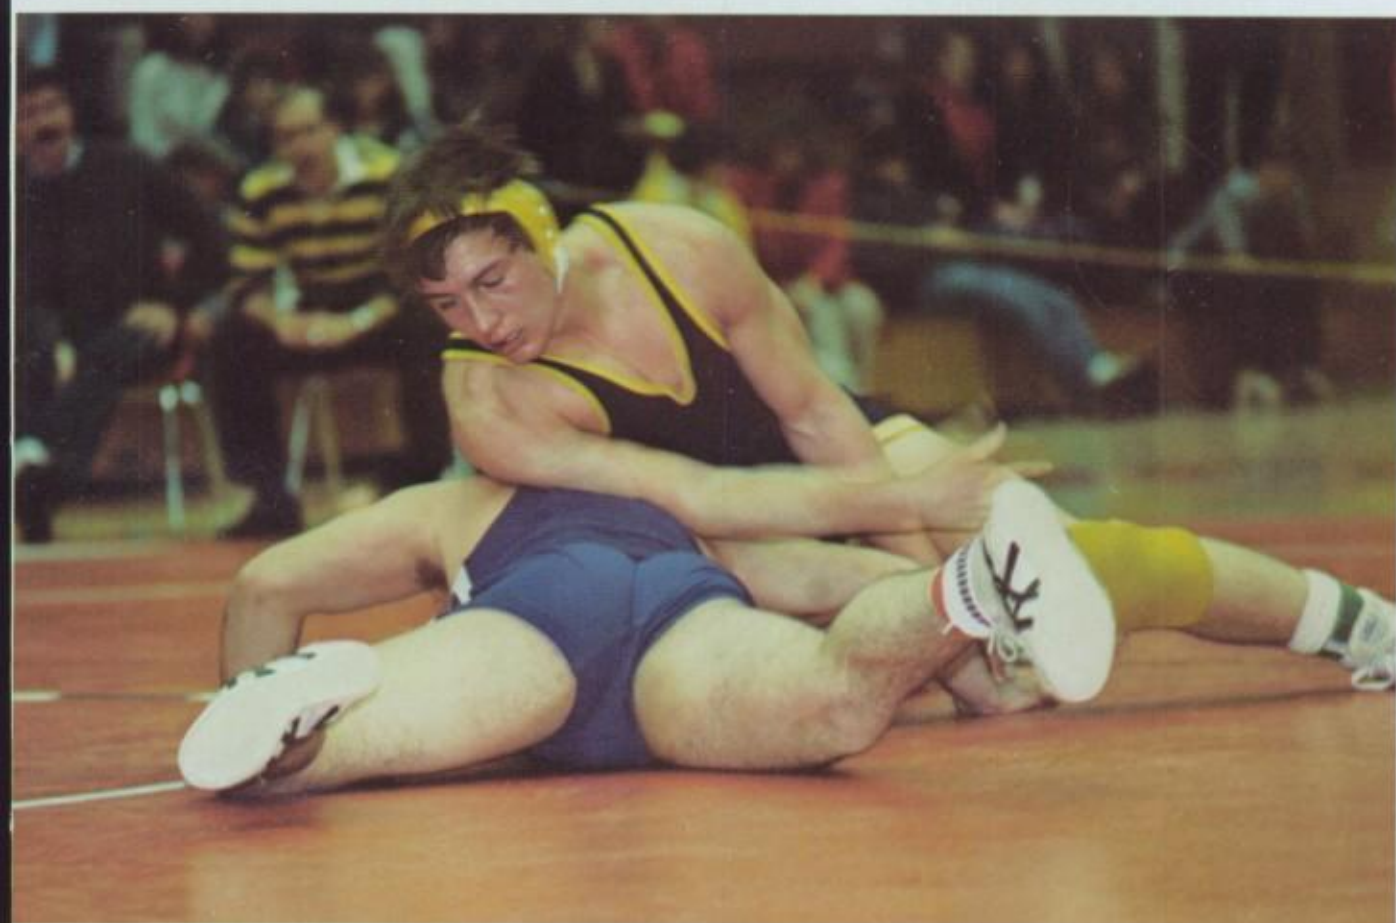

Senior Craig Campbell stands above the rest as he smiles over winning the 119 pound state title.

While in control, junior Jeff Brewer concentrates on rolling over his opponent in hopes of getting the pin.

Showing his great strength and skill, junior Trent McCormick gains control over his opponent at regional competition.

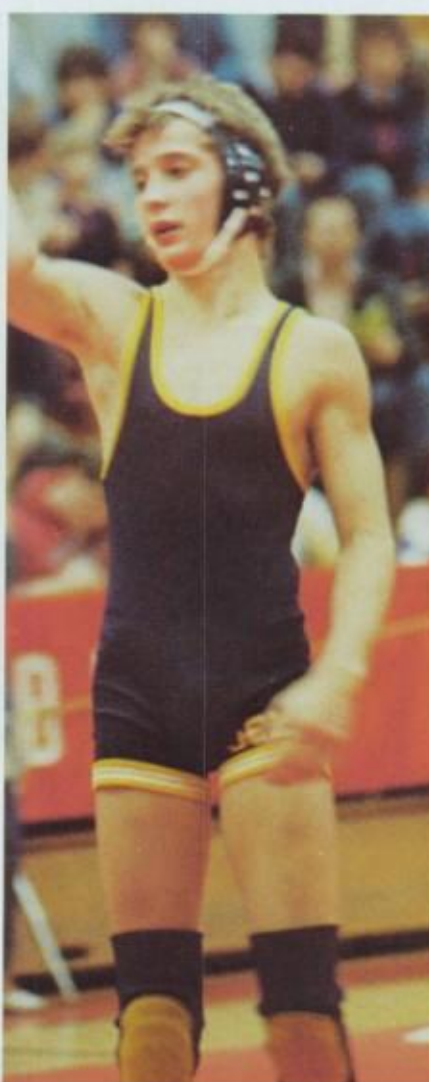

We couldn't have done it without them! Coaches Don Patton and Don Puckett give shouts of encouragement to a regional wrestler.

It's another victory for tough sophomore Andy Parkison. Parkison wrestled his way to an impressive third place finish at the state competition.

Senior heavyweight Hobie Combs glances at the clock in the final seconds of his match against a Cowan wrestler.

Different types of hairstyles show class

Delta students are known for class! They have style! The students dressed in the latest fashions and always kept up with the latest hair styles. The look for the girls was bobbed or permed hair. Many of the guys wore their hair long at the nape and cropped off at the top. Delta men were also getting into permanents! Styling gels were used to create a wet look or a spiky look, and mousses were a popular item for creating body in hair. These were two of this year's hottest hair care items. The main hair accessory that the girls were wearing was butterfly clips. These clips used to be worn by people when they went to have their hair styled at a salon. Now they are the latest way to pull hair back. Delta students just always seem to be in step with fashion! They definitely do have style!

A big hit in hair for guys was the permed look. Junior Larry Coffee glances at his hair between classes. (aq)

In order to get psyched up for the boys' state swim meet, senior Sean Lewis gets his hair butched. (mr)

Short hair is sensible and stylish. Junior Stephanie Upton chooses to wear her hair in a short style. (aq)

The bob is back! Sophomore Christine Meyer is the perfect model for showing this classic cut. (aq)

Sophomore Melissa Masters gets brave and goes for it with a short chic haircut. (bl)

Who says guys have to have short hair? Seniors George Shumar and Richard Stump prefer the longer look. (aq)

Young couples in love dress up school

Nothing dresses up a school more than young couples holding hands as they walk to their classes. The best time of a person's life is often during their first love. As everyone knows, these times can also be the most difficult. For example, when the guy of your dreams is in love with your best friend, or when you go with someone for two years, and they break up because there is someone else. Another time is when your parents hate everything about the person you're in desperate love with. These problems just never seem to end. Isn't it all worth it though in the end? One day we'll all find that perfect someone, and look back on our high school romances as memories to keep alive in our minds forever!

Junior Lori Green and senior David Edwards run into some friends between classes and chat while hand in hand. (dgr)

Having a boyfriend or girlfriend isn't all seriousness. Sophomore Shelly Wilson and junior Chad Niccum goof off in the band room. (km)

Staff rides donkeys for club benefits

Who were Thunder Ball, Kilroy, and Beatle Bomb? Anyone who attended the donkey basketball game knew that they were only a few of the stubborn, kicking, and not-so-gentle donkeys that Delta staff members were fortunate enough to get to play basketball on. The DECA Club and the Communicative Arts Club sponsored the hilarious event that featured two teams with eleven members on each team. The Mule Skinners were composed of Nancy Harper, Jack Voelz, Pat Ervin, Phil Davis, Don Patton, Steve Scroggins, Tom Fihe, Chris Schwer, Mike Brandon, Gary Huggler, and Fred Beehler. Their opponents, the Jackasstronuts, were composed of Cal Gullion, Doug Jacobs, Dian Locke, Steve Townsend, Kip Omstead, Frank Bagienski, Charles DeNeal, Sandy Duncan, Tom Devine, Gary LeMasters, and Dennis Lewis. While coaches Gloria Bunner and Kaye Rehner instructed their teams on the finer points of the game, announcers Jerry Jones and Don Puckett kept the large audience laughing throughout the evening. Although the Mule Skinners gave it their best shot, the Jackasstronuts came away with a narrow two-point victory. The crowd was also entertained by Honey Pot, the world's buckin'est donkey, and a group of crazy cheerleaders. Several other Delta staff members donated their time to serve as scorekeepers, timers, doctors, nurses, photographers, and the "fall out crew." The entire evening was a success with the riders and donkeys playing before a jam-packed gym. It was interesting for students to see their teachers and even members of the administration donate their time to make people laugh even if it meant looking ridiculous and getting a few bruises!

Since only four team members can play at a time, some of the members of the Jackasstronuts sit the bench and cheer for their fellow teammates. (jb)

Basketball wasn't the only contest that proved hilarious, as Ray and Melanie Ferguson participate in the donkey diapering contest. (jb)

Showing his natural basketball playing abilities, Kip Omstead shoots the basketball while sitting comfortably on his donkey. The rules of the game say that a person must be sitting on his donkey while shooting or passing, which isn't always easy. (jb)

Dian Locke displays a look of shock and disappointment as she misses an attempt at a basket. (jb)

Accidents do tend to happen when there are donkeys near, and the fall out crew is prepared for the worst. (dgrr)

Getting on a donkey isn't all that glamorous. Nancy Harper sticks her tongue out in anguish as she tries to mount her donkey. (rg)

Cal Gullion seems to be having a little trouble trying to get his donkey to cooperate. (jb)

Sunglasses aren't just for summer wear

Who's that dude in the shades? Sunglasses were as popular as ever this year and were seen at all times of the year. It wasn't an unfamiliar sight to see students wearing shades after school while cruising the parking lot. Sunglasses became a fashion with the many different colors and styles to choose from. Many sunglasses were seen dangling from the students' necks with fashionable colored straps. Shades also came in handy as spring hit and were a big help during spring break. A student doesn't have to be blinded by the sun to wear sunglasses. The look is as stylish and classy as ever and is not likely to go out of fashion for quite a while.

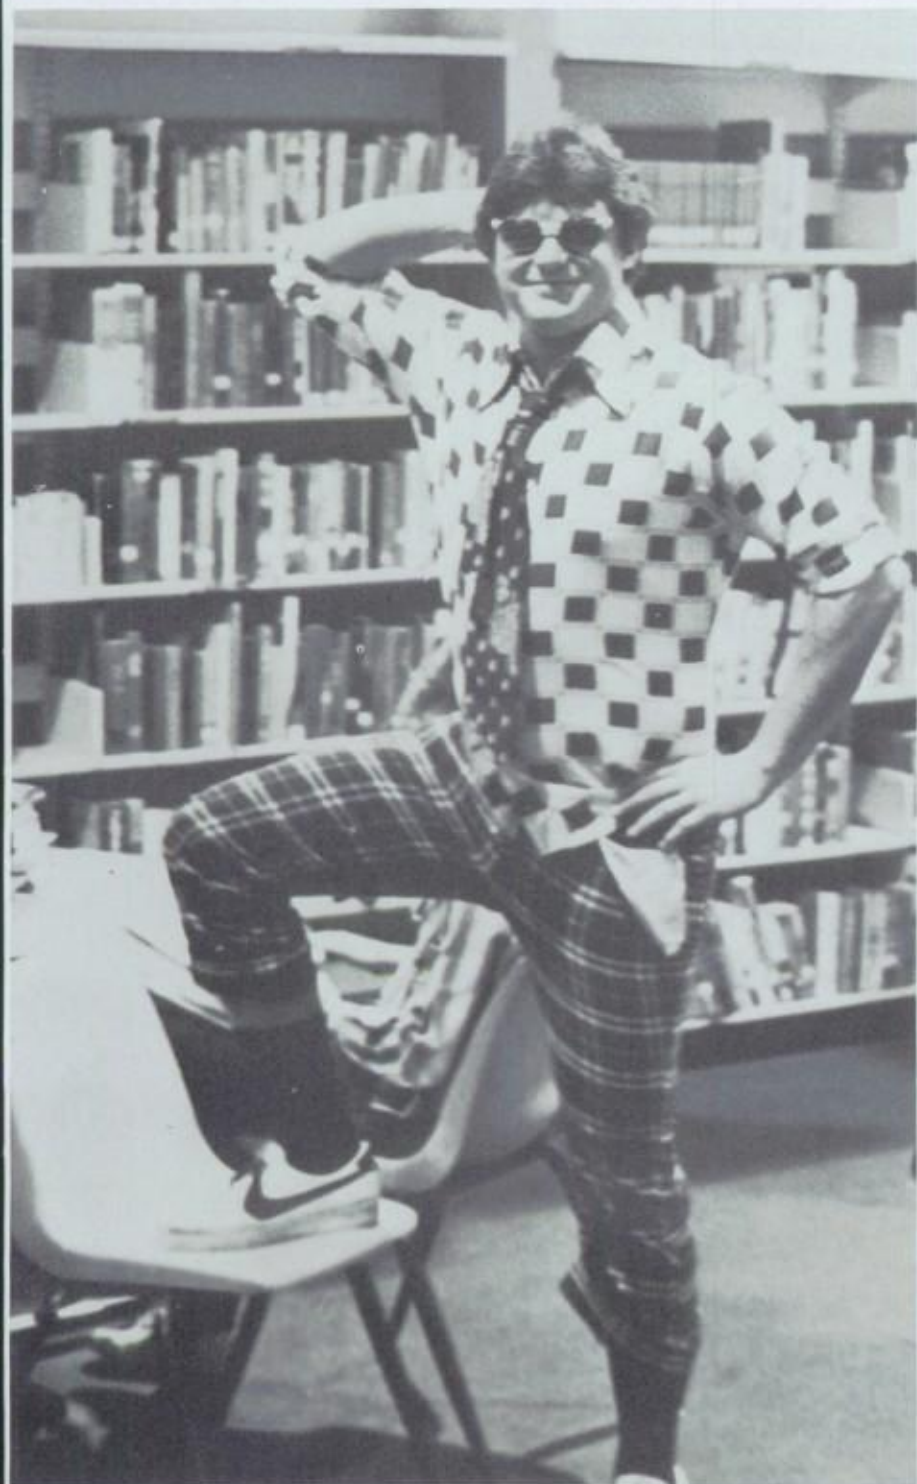

Senior Craig Campbell teases the office helpers with his rude, out comical jestures. (jb)

Freshman Roy Schaus finds it difficult to get any work done with his shades on and an arrow going through his head! (jb)

Wearing some cool shades, freshman Bruce Weimer gives his "don't mess around with me" look. (jb)

Is that senior Dave Edwards? It looks like Dave traded in his jock image for his true nerdy self! (jb)

Senior Sean Lewis finds a new place to wear his goggles. He obviously just wants to show off his great muscles from swimming. (jb)

Sporting the latest look in sunglasses, senior Jacie Bisel relaxes in the English teacher preparation area. (jb)

Young Life provides fun, friendships

Young Life took place on Monday nights and gave students a chance to meet new people and develop friendships. Every time Young Life got together, there was always a lot of fun and entertainment planned. The evenings usually started out with students and leaders singing four or five songs. The skit usually came next, and the Young Life leaders from Taylor University have thought up some pretty crazy things to do. Some of the skits have included "drinking toothpaste" and eating goldfish. Announcements were given during the evening, and a story with a special message was told by a leader. After the meetings were over, everyone sat around and talked. There were also dress-ups every week, and though it may seem ridiculous, students have come dressed as twins, in Hawaiian attire, and with their clothes inside out. Young Life is open to all students, and the few hours of time it takes to go are definitely well worth it.

It's skit time! Sophomores Dori Dirlham and Andrea Shonk get volunteered to see how fast they can eat bananas and drink 7-up.

What would Hawaiian night be without a hula dance? Sophomores Chris Cribbs and Binky Heintzelman demonstrate the evening's atmosphere.

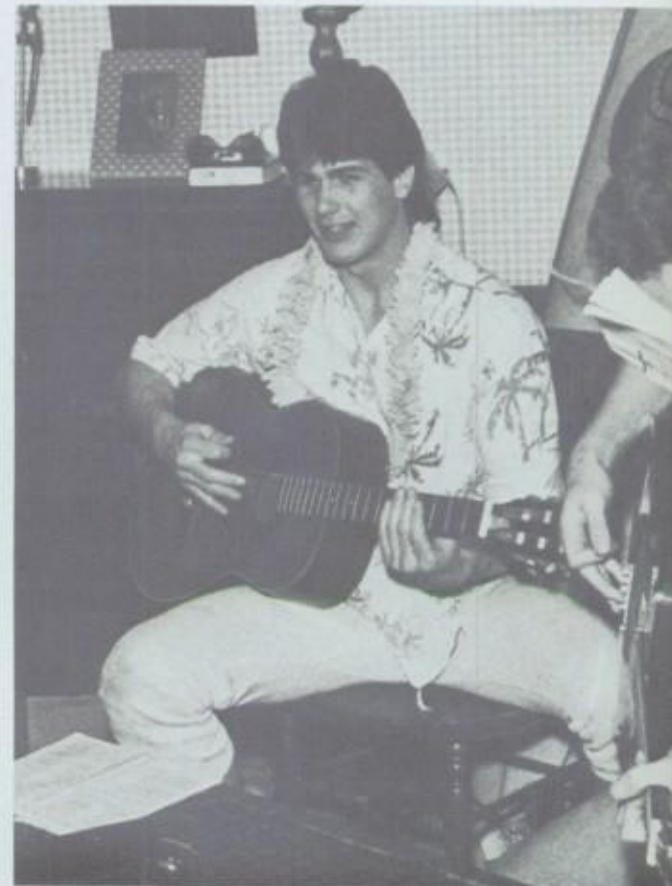

Freshmen Scott Robinson and John Baron get a snack in the aftermath of a Young Life meeting.

Members of Young Life show how much fun it is to be a part of the club as they pose for the group picture.

Young Life leader Craig Weyandt plays his guitar to set the pace for a song.

Sophomore Andrea Shonk and Kathleen Phipps from Taylor University take some time out to concentrate on the special message of the evening.

They're wild and crazy guys! Young Life leaders from Taylor University show their great personalities while singing a quartet.

Spring variety show full of entertainment

Spring fever was in the hearts of all of the people who were involved in the variety show in May. The Selectones put together an excellent combination of singing and dancing that made the entire audience sit up and take notice. The show consisted of several individual performances as well as the Selectones performing as a group. The program was highlighted by a slide show of the Selectones' complete year together. Then laughter filled the auditorium as the parents of the Selectones took over the stage and gave their own little performance. The Selectones also performed their award winning routine that captured third place at the Bishop Luers Contest. The program ended on a sad note as the Selectones wrapped up their special year together by singing a farewell song.

Senior Carl Greene, portraying the Tin Man, asks the audience to "slide some oil to him."

All eyes are on freshman Matt Murray as he sings, "There's a Sucker Born Every Minute."

The variety show caused emotions of both joy and sorrow as the Selectones gave their final performance.

The character of Dorothy, portrayed by senior Angie Childs, sings a song to express her feelings of homesickness.

The Selectone women sing about how they are "feeling pretty" as they amuse the audience.

Junior Aaron Smith and senior Angie Drerup sing a love song to each other in the West Side Story Medley.

The Selectones show their spunk and enthusiasm as senior Mike Fitzgerald sings, "Trouble."

Senior Lori Ferguson dances to the beat of the Rhythm of the Night in the variety show.

Talents shine at the Evening of the Arts

All of the hidden talents students possess were opened to the public at the annual Evening of the Arts. Many different types of displays and skills entertained the visitors such as various types of art and wood projects. Other departments that contributed to the evening's success were the English department with poetry books, Shakespeare posters, and video tapes, the civics classes with a videotape of a mock trial, home economics with the serving of food and drinks, yearbook class with the selling of old pictures, and the agriculture department with the selling of vegetables and plants. Other areas included a mock Skill Bowl display and a nursery school graduation. Musical entertainment was provided by the Indianapolis Jazz Ensemble and the Delta Jazz Band. There was plenty to see and do at the Evening of the Arts, and the evening proved that Delta is full of talented students.

People sort through old pictures in the journalism room hoping to find pictures of friends and family.

Guests at the Evening of the Arts observe the beautiful furniture made by students in woodworking class.

Visitors enjoy watching videotapes and browsing through junior poetry notebooks.

Senior Kenny Ring is the questioner in this mock Skill Bowl activity set up near the commons.

This fine display of flowers was for sale in the horticulture area just in time for Mother's Day.

The Delta Jazz Band performs for visitors of the Evening of the Arts near the junior lockers.

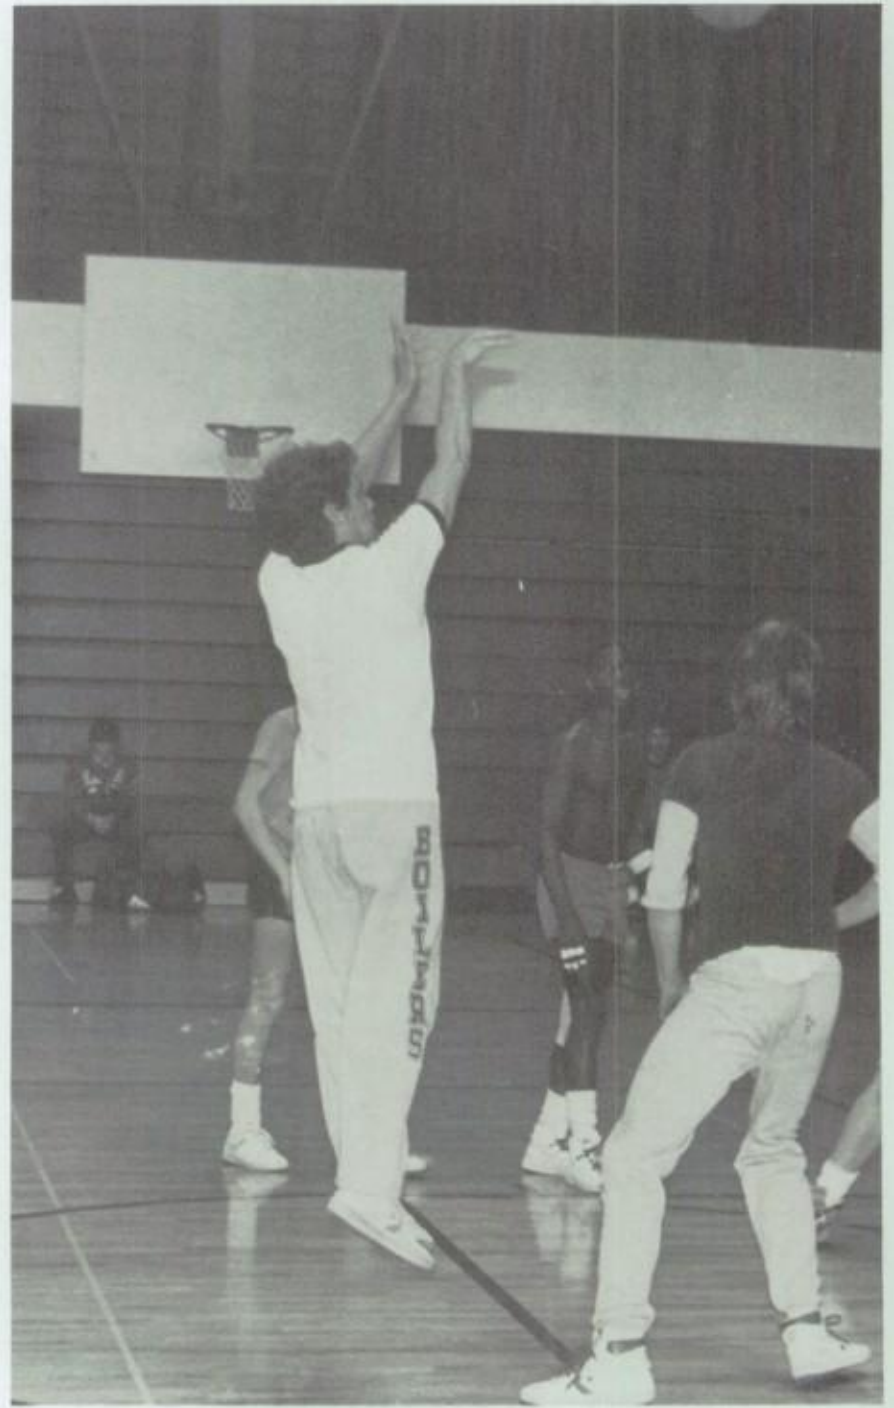

Intramurals provide student competition

Intramurals provided students uninvolved in Delta team sports with a chance to compete with other students in an extracurricular program. Bowling and basketball were the two intramural activities offered to any students interested. Steve Scroggins was the sponsor of both programs and both were very successful. Bowling took place every Monday after school at the Village Bowl. There were approximately seven teams with four members on each team. The Pin Busters were the winning team, but the other teams were able to practice and have fun polishing their skills. Intramural basketball was played on Saturday mornings in the gym. There were six teams, and Domination was the most successful team of the season. A tournament was held, and the Smokin' Six defeated the other teams in this end-of-the-year competition. A small fee was charged for intramurals, but the winning teams of both activities received trophies for their abilities.

Prom really was a "Night in Heaven"

It was a "Night in Heaven" at the Junior-Senior Prom. The commons was turned into a heavenly fantasy land. The ceiling was covered with streamers and clouds to make it appear like a beautiful blue sky. Couples danced the night away to all kinds of music, and everyone enjoyed viewing videos which went along with many of the songs that were played. All of the girls looked lovely in their elegant prom dresses of many styles, and the guys looked quite handsome in their tuxedos of various colors. Five boys and five girls from the junior class were chosen as prince and princess candidates. The prince candidates were Trent Sanders, Trent McCormick, Aaron Smith, Mark Ferguson, and Rob Buck. Girls up for princess were Lori Green, Cami Bruin, Kerri Harrold, Beth Garner, and Joni Campbell. Trent McCormick and Joni Campbell were chosen as the prince and princess of the prom. Senior candidates for king and queen were David Melton, William Paschal, Terry Faust, David Edwards, Rodney Cross, Valerie Helms, Amy Prewett, Julie Slusher, Lonna Orman, and Jill Kanedy. Elected queen and king were Amy Prewett and David Melton.

Bowling, pizza, movie offered after prom

Delta's junior class did a great job of putting on a super prom for the seniors. Not only was the prom great, but also the after-prom activities went very nicely. After prom students had a half hour to change clothes and get back to the school. Two movies were provided, and then everyone was served pizza and Pepsi. After the movies and pizza, most students went to the Muncie Bowling Center for the rest of the evening. Many couples finished prom with an early morning breakfast before going home. Couples who attended the prom will always have their pictures, champagne glasses, and other special souvenirs to remember a truly wonderful night. It was their "Night in Heaven."

Couples gather around in expectation as they wait for the crowning of the new prom queen and king.

Spring break creates special memories

How many times could the question, "Are you going to Florida?" be heard throughout the halls during the spring? For those of us who were fortunate enough to get to go to Florida, or even outside of Indiana, the question wasn't a bother, but those stuck in good old Muncie could only dream. Florida holds special memories for all who went, and most will never forget Florida sunsets, beaches, shopping malls, convertibles, cruising, and new friends. Souvenirs such as shell rings, necklaces, and bracelets, flowered shorts, and T-shirts decorated the school after spring break. As the terrific tans students acquired while on vacation slowly faded, the plans for the next spring break and the memories of the last remained.

CLAIMING OUR SPOT

With the new laws and regulations, school work became more in demand. Stress was put on students doing their homework before anything else. Students were to use their class time wisely. This time was spent furthering the knowledge of the students. All athletes were checked for grades. Academics were a very strong element throughout the year. High class ranking and honor roll were definite goals. Academics was stressed, so students cracked down. Studies became an important part of the students claiming their spot.

Yearbook, newspaper, business won't stop till

Putting together a newspaper is not easy with only ten members, but this year's newspaper staff did an excellent job as always. Junior Cathy Poore, editor-in-chief, pulled together the staff members to complete a successful year of newspaper publishings. The newspaper sold Valentine and Christmas messages to help make money to publish the EAGLE'S EYE. The staff put out 12 regular editions. Like always, when the newspaper staff made their big deadlines, they got to have a breakfast party.

The DELTONIAN staff had a productive year. The staff of 29 people managed to complete their deadlines to bring together the 1985

Yearbook: 1st Row — G. Freestone, L. Tomlin, B. Johnson, L. Ferguson, N. Boyd, M. Robinson, L. Unger, S. Hineman, A. Cowgill. 2nd Row — H. Pippin, B. Heintzelman, C. Bruin, S. Narducci, R. everything gets done

The business department had an exciting year, starting off with 18 new computers. Other business classes offered were typing, business math, accounting, marketing, shorthand, and computers. With the addition of the new computers the Intro. to Computers classes taught the students to operate and design their own programs. DECA had an exceptional year sending 21 students to the state contest.

The business department did an excellent job of preparing students to go into the business world. Whatever area of business students might have been interested in, there was a course just for them. All of the business courses proved beneficial to the students.

Selectones take fourth at Bishop Luers;

The Choral Department led by Mrs. Jane Welch kept very busy throughout the year. Hours of practice paid off as they ended the year with much success.

Gold Choir, a concert choir, which consisted of about 70 students, kept very active. They performed in the concert series given by the music department. The students also performed in numerous area churches.

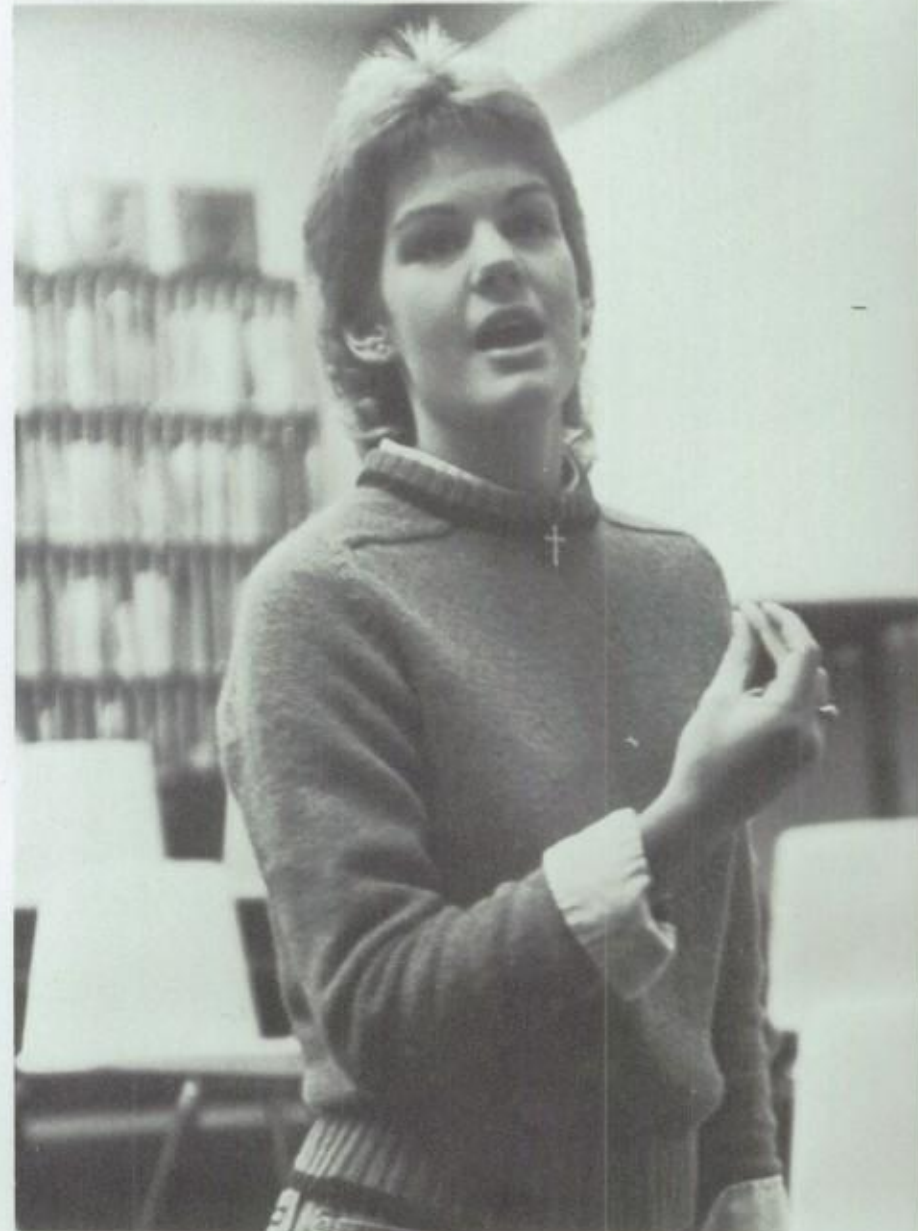

The Selectones performed in the Bishop Luers Swing Choir Invitational and received 3rd runner-up with the stage crew receiving first place. At the Plymouth, Indiana Swing Choir contest they were awarded with 2nd runner-up. The Selectones also performed at St. Louis.

The Selectones' stage crew had original, snazzy outfits consisting of Delta Air Lines jump suits and matching hats. Selectones wore outfits consisting of fuchsia dresses with rhinestones and matching high heeled shoes for the girls. The boys' outfits were gray tuxedos with fuchsia bow ties and cumberbuns. While they performed, their eye catching outfits and their beautiful voices really kept the crowds full attention.

Being in Gold Choir or Selectones is not only a privilege, but also a lot of fun. The students do not have fun all the time, because there is also a lot of hard work involved. When they put their fun and hard work together it all pays off.

Band finishes year on winning note;

Once again a year draws to a close and a very successful one it was for the members of the band. They placed ninth at the IHSAA division rating. The concert band received a second with the symphonic band receiving a first. The band performed at all the home basketball and football games throughout the year.

Along with all the public appearances they managed to sell candy bars, cheese and sausage, and gift checkbooks. Chris Cribbs commented, "Band is a lot of hard work, but very exciting and worthwhile once you've accomplished your goal!"

Following the trends and winning the crowds' hearts was once again a part of the guards' show. The guard was the largest in the high school guard circuit last year. They consisted of sixteen flags, eight swing flags, and eight rifles for a total of 32 members. This group of 32 would cover the whole floor one minute and scrunch into a small block the next.

They received two thirds and a seventh during regular season competitions. Finishing seventh behind sixth place by one tenth of a point at state, the guard finished the season with a sense of accomplishment and a warm feeling inside for pleasing the crowds. Setting a tradition with male rifles dazzled the crowd, with their dancing abilities and smiles which brought many screaming fans. Although the guard was plagued with bad weather, which canceled practices and contests, they bounced back into the groove with the help of new director Mr. James Ross.

Junior Jennifer Hobson adds a little extra to her ability to play the drums as she clowns around in the band room. (kn)

English study new texts; civics visit General

The English department was strengthened by the new addition of grammar and literature books, which was a refreshing change of pace. The sophomore English classes made poetry anthologies and Shakespeare posters. The juniors made their annual poetry notebooks, and they wrote research papers. The big event of the senior year was their yearly Shakespeare Day.

The civics classes were allowed to attend the General Assembly, which was held in Indianapolis. The U.S. history classes learned more about their country.

Due to the changes in the state requirements, students are now required to have 2 years of math to graduate.

The students in this Latin class appear to be having a little extra time to talk and visit. (gf)

Home Economics mixes right ingredients;

In the Home Economics Department there were many varieties of classes offered. Among these were sewing, cooking, family relations, interpersonal relations, child development, consumer relations, and tea room for advanced foods students. The child development classes were again given the chance to work with children through the nursery school. The students had a fun time working with these kids. The Science Department had a very productive year. The annual Science Fair was held again. Receiving first place awards were Martin Welge and Adele Van Meters. Placing second were Eric Welge and Steve Freel. These who successfully finished with honors went on to represent the entire student body at the Regional Science Fair, which was held at Ball State University. WWDS staff members meet obligations;

WWDS, our very own radio station, provided students and teachers with music and all the latest news in the mornings. Being on the staff is not as easy as it sounds. The staff members have many responsibilities and obligations that have to be met everyday. To be on the staff students have to have had one year of broadcasting and must pass a test.

In speech class the students are given the opportunity to be more experienced in speaking in front of a group of people.

In drama class students are able to learn all about the different types of acting and then they get a chance to show off their skills by doing skits with other students in the class.

All these classes are taught by Mr. Jerry Jones. These classes prepare the students for any future jobs in radio, acting, and any kind of speaking.

Industrial Arts, Art, Ag learn by doing

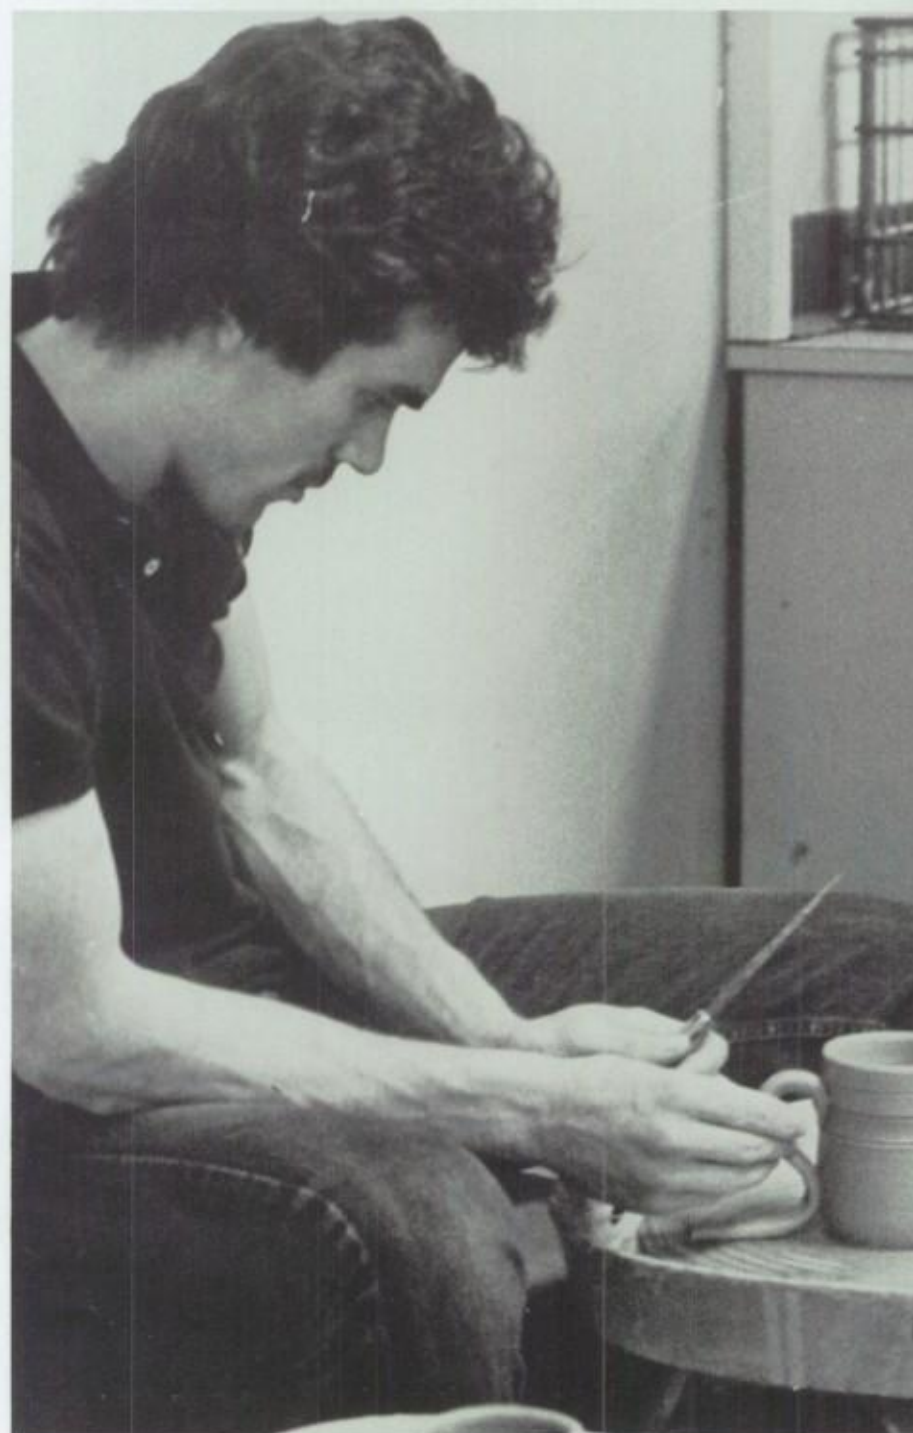

Industrial Arts, Ag, and Art all play an extremely important role in this school. If a teacher, class or student ever needs anything done in which these classes can help with, they will certainly do it. They do their learning by doing. So when someone needs a project done, they are grateful for the experience it gives them. In these classes the kids prove there are other ways of learning besides reading a book and taking a test.

The Ag department sold potted plants and Easter lillies again to raise money. The Art department spent their time creating masterpieces of all forms. These projects include: jewelry, paintings, pencil drawings, and pottery ideas, just to name a few.

P.E., Health offer several opportunities;

The P.E. department had many interesting things to do. The freshman classes got involved in swimming, soccer, dancing and volleyball. The sophomore classes were taking part in team activities. They played tennis and also volleyball. The sophomores completed a swimming and a physical fitness unit. The department offered a sixth hour class especially for athletes. This class gave the athletes an opportunity to train all year long.

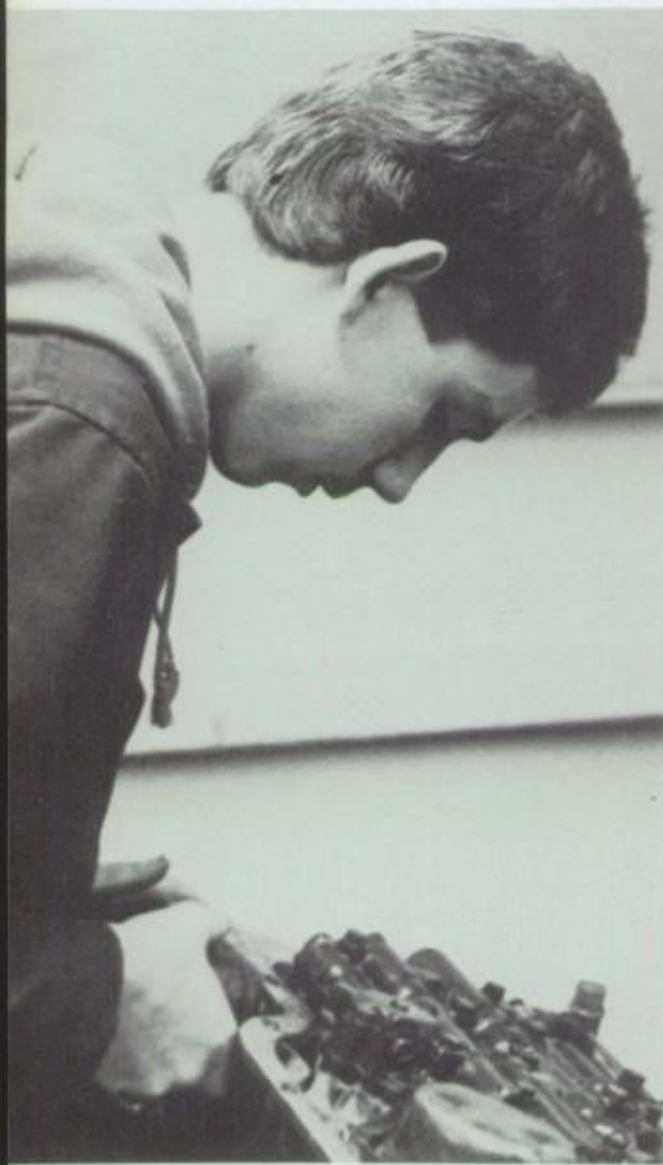

The health classes learned about different kinds of handicaps during class. They experienced what it would be like to be blind. The students got into groups of two for this experiment. One student would be blindfolded while the other would lead him or her around the school. The kids were required to learn the muscles and the bones of the body. Drugs and alcohol was a unit that really interested the students.

Some students choose to take courses at the Muncie Area Career Center. This gives them on the job training. It seems to really help them in their future careers. A few of the classes offered at the Career Center are graphic arts, office lab, electronics, metal fabrications, health care, and cosmetology. After graduating from the Career Center many students are placed in jobs. This is an extremely good opportunity for any student.

CLAIMING OUR SPOT

As seniors, we have shared four unforgettable years. We've struggled through freshman initiations, fought for top positions on teams and made long lasting friendships. We have come a long way. We've stood up for what we believe in, even though the odds weren't so great. We've worked on homecoming floats, prom and class projects. As seniors we have cheered our teams to victory and together we've cried with our defeats. We made our own place and as seniors we have claimed our own spot.

Pudding In A Cloud

"A free-for-all war" was how many seniors best described the senior class dance activities. The evening started off with the first ever chocolate pudding wrestling and a red jello slide. Water balloons and a shaving cream fight were added to help the evening's excitement.

During the dance, they were served Noble Romans pizza. Three hundred dollars was spent towards furnishing it.

As "We Are the World" played, the seniors formed a large circle to spend a few minutes together sharing their feelings about their upcoming graduation.

Senior English students experience the days of Shakespeare

On Shakespeare Day, the senior English students were able to take a day off from their usual routine to experience a day full of excitement. They started the day off with a parade through the classrooms. Some of the students dressed in togas, as witches, and some were armed with swords and shields. It gave them a chance to show off their interpretation of what was worn back then. They were also involved in skits which were taken from any of Shakespeare's plays or poems. Some sang songs while others acted their favorite scenes. They were served chicken, cheese, grapes, bread, and juice for lunch. Birthday cake was served and "Happy Birthday" was sung in celebration of Shakespeare's birthday. They watched "Taming of the Shrew" to wrap up the activities for the day.

Senior Cathy Shideler is extremely pleased as Mrs. Kay Rehner presents her with the University of Evansville Alumni Merit Scholarship.

Many Seniors are honored for Academic Excellence

Seniors Shelina Isom and Mike Fitzgerald are awarded for their success in Spanish while senior Valerie Helms is awarded for her accomplishment in French.

Mr. Royce Costin awards senior Kevin Owen for his accomplishment in FFA.

Mr. David Smithson proudly hands senior Kim Foltz the science, Chemistry I award.

Senior John Huffman is presented with a token of Mrs. Marlene Landfair's appreciation for being the school Media Services award winner.

Mrs. Betty Thomas awards Kim Foltz, Cindy Hall, Beth Johnson, and Mike Laymond for their excellence in English.

Graduation is a big step in the seniors lives

On June 1 at the Ball State University's Auditorium, the seniors started another important part of their lives. It was the time that many of them made a big step towards growing up. They stepped out from underneath their parents' wing in order to grow into mature, independent individuals. Graduation was the time that the seniors left their past to move onward in different directions. Many will either go onto college or find other means to make their life a success.

As they listened to Julie Wright, the Valedictorian, and Kim Foltz, the Salutatorian, it gave them an opportunity to remember the things about high school which made it such a wonderful experience. Kim's and Julie's speech helped to fill many of the seniors' minds with dreams, goals, and ambitions that they might achieve someday in the future.

The class motto, live for today dream for tomorrow and remember the past, for this is living, will stay in the minds of the seniors and will help to keep many of their dreams alive forever.

Senior class officers: J. Slusher, president; N. Boyd, vice-president; M. Judd, secretary; M. Laymon, treasurer.

This Is It!

This is it! We finally made our destination. All the hard work is behind us. When we were freshmen, we thought that we would never make it, but our life at school became much easier.

Homecoming proved victorious for the seniors during activity night by winning the powder puff game, the three-legged race, and both the girls and the boys tug-of-war. Valerie Helms and Terry Faust were crowned homecoming queen and king.

Eight senior girls participated in the Junior Miss Pageant at Central High School. Martha Cooper, Valerie Helms, Tara-Lynne Patton, Sue Reum, Lisa Roberts, Lori Ferguson, Angie Childs, and Julie Wright were among the twenty-six participants. Julie Wright was rewarded with the Scholastic award, Angie Childs was the recipient of the Physical Fitness award, and Lori Ferguson received first runner-up.

We have appreciated all the help that our sponsors, Mr. Kip Omstead and Mrs. Sally Wright, have given us. We have learned many things about life that we will cherish forever.

After twelve years of achievements, challenges, joys, thrills, and disappointments, our dream became reality on graduation day.

Campbell voted, new student body president

The junior class raised $2412.42 by selling M&Ms. They participated in the many homecoming events although the juniors did not place in any of the events they showed good sportsmanship and had a good time.

The class of '86" finally had their chance at sponsoring the prom. The junior class had a great turnout and it was a beautifully done prom. Trent McCormick was awarded prince and Joni Campbell was princess.

Joni Campbell was elected as the new student body president for the 1985-86 school year.

The junior class officers were president; Brian Clawson, vice president; Mark Ferguson, secretary; Ryan Wantz, and treasurer; Cami Bruin. On student council were Joni Campbell, Susan Dewey, David Engle, Marvin Hawkins, Rob Jones, and Wendy Locke.

Junior class president Brian Clawson stated "prom was a fun experience but I wouldn't want to do it again."

Sophs take first place in class banner competition

During homecoming week the sophomores artistic abilities shined through when they took first place in the class banner competition. They won a game of powderpuff football against the freshmen. Brian Haggard was elected as homecoming prince and Julie Moeller as princess. The sophomore class raised $2346.76 by sponsoring two dances and selling Bike candy bars. Student council members attended the district convention and student council member Christine Meyer attended the state convention. The sophomore class president, Heidi Hansan, commented, "It was a good year, and we're in good shape for the prom next year because we made a lot of money."

Proud to represent the sophomore class, class officers, treasurer, John Gick; secretary, Jennifer Petty; vice president, Tammy Taschwer; and president, Heidi Hansan, pose on the stairs.

Freshmen survived the rookie year with the average number of problems, such as finding their way around new territory, putting up with the usual harassment of upper-classmen and the hassle of having to ride the school bus.

They participated for the first time in a number of events during homecoming week. One was the powder puff football game against the juniors. Although the juniors won, the freshmen showed good spirit. Other events were tug-of-war, an obstacle course and tricycle race.

Freshmen sponsored a dance during football season. In March they sold Bikes candy bars for another moneymaking project.

Jennifer McAdams won Miss Frosh Personality and Kim Shaffer was elected Miss Frosh Representative at the Sweetheart Ball.

Fihe, Land, Gullion, lead Del Comm

Our administration did an excellent job of keeping the school system running smoothly. Although field trips, convos, and other school projects were limited by new high school rules and regulations the administration did everything possible to make sure school was bearable and fun for students. The year began with the hiring of Superintendent Dr. Thomas Fihe, aiding him in decisions was Assistant Superintendent Dr. Edwin Lyskowinski, and the school board members: R. Douglas Brown, Nancy Daily, Georgel Campbell, Robert Park, and James Clevenger.

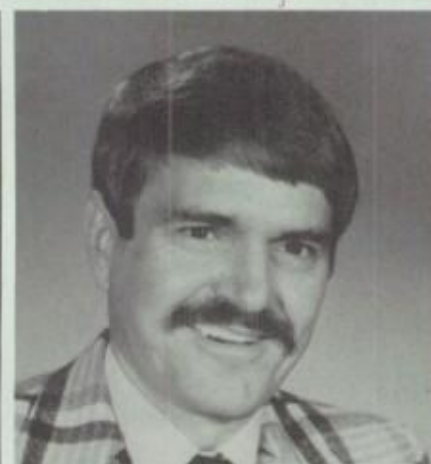

Mr. Dave Land began the year as principal and after receiving a prestigious football coaching job offer at Ball State University, he turned in his resignation. Assistant Principal Calvin Gullion received the job of acting principal and newcomer to deans, Mike Brandon, became vice principal, and Mrs. Nancy Harper was joined by Charles DeNeal as dean. Mrs. Dian Locke turned in her resignation as secretary. Mrs. Locke helped start the Pin Pals, and served the school as secretary for seven years. All of the students will truly miss her.

Twice a month school board meetings were held, where Superintendent Fihe and the school board made decisions that brought into force the new rules and regulations. A problem the administration did face was an abundance of snow days. A couple of weeks during the winter the kids loved the administration for giving them time to sleep in and take a break from school.

The administration should be thanked for leading us through such a successful year.

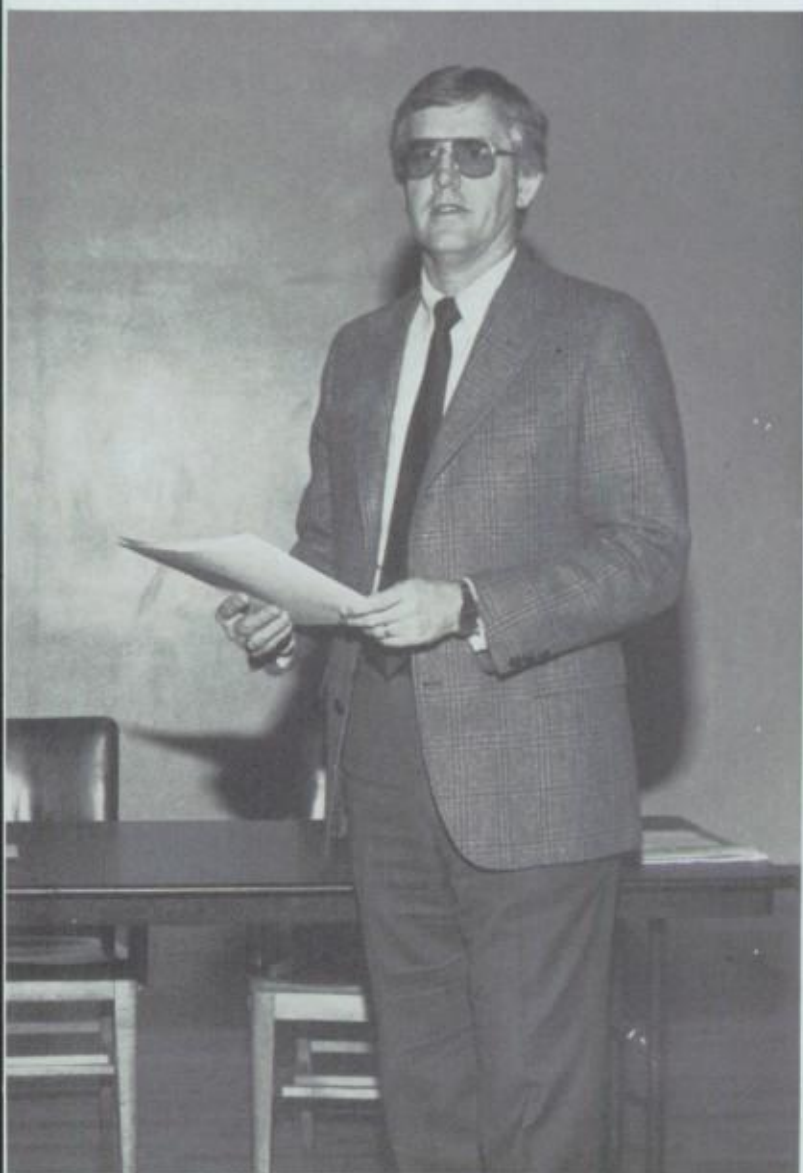

Dave E. Land — Principal
Calvin V. Gullion — Vice Principal
Nancy J. Harper — Dean
Michael N. Brandon — Dean

Secretaries Pat Reed and Barbara Plymale help keep the administration building running smoothly.

Mrs. Gloria Bunner samples the goodies brought in by other teachers for the Christmas party. The teachers got together to reveal their secret santas.

Our teachers are special

Are our teachers jail wardens or babysitters? Actually, they're very special people who helped us grow physically and mentally in all aspects, and they kept our school jumping and alive last year. For those who were sponsors, helping their class earn money for future activities was one of their main priorities. Then we had our brave teachers who volunteered their time and efforts to the Donkey Basketball game. Falling off backwards and forwards and making fools of themselves was just part of the fun-filled night when our teachers proved to everyone that they too are only human. Some very special friends, the coaches, helped athletes find themselves and their personalities. They helped them mature and grow into adults that better understand other adults and the world around them. Students came to love these very special people and will treasure them always.

Mrs. Amy Bassett, English, Mrs. Sheliah Dorton, speech and hearing, Mrs. Sandy Duncan, resource room aide, Mrs. Sarah Ellcessor, English, Mrs. Pat Ervin, U.S. history, Mrs. Jane Johnson, detention aide, Mr. Dennis Lewis, physical education, Mrs. Dayna Stump, home ec., Miss Mary Tomal, art, and Mr. Steve Townsend, agriculture, were warmly welcomed to our family of teachers and friends. The students even seemed to enjoy classes more too. Each new teacher naturally felt proud to have the opportunity to become a part of the Eagle's winning team of teachers and students.

Flannery retires after 14 years

Dependable workers and great friends are what custodians, cafeteria cooks, and resource room aides are to us. Shoveling the snow off the walk, plowing the parking lot, fixing broken doors, and stopping leaky roofs are just a few jobs the custodians perform everyday. The cooks plan meals, clean up the cafeteria, wash dishes, and serve approximately 800 students a day. If you need special help just visit the resource room and one of the wonderful aides will offer their time and patience to help you with your homework or test. A very special person, Mrs. Edna Flannery, custodian, retired after 14 years of hard work. She'll be missed a great deal as a friend and custodian. Students really appreciate all of these people because without them our school wouldn't be complete.

School just wouldn't be complete without organizational groups to take our minds off of trig formulas and vocabulary words. All the organizations provided us with an outlet to reading, writing and arithmetic. They gave us a chance to take on responsibilities and leadership qualities that are vital to our future. Organizations gave us a chance to be with friends and to work with people, whose interests are similar to our own. They gave us a chance to be ourselves and to claim our spot.

Student Council, DECA shine through

The student council did a lot toward promoting school spirit. Although we were all disappointed about not having a homecoming parade, the student council really made the best of it. They organized all the homecoming games and the pep session. During the holidays the student council really caught the Christmas spirit. They purchased two Christmas trees and decorated them. These trees were placed in the business area and the home economics area. The student council's high point of the year was hosting the district student council meeting. The student council put quite a bit of effort into the year, and it really shows!

Members of DECA enjoyed a very exciting year. DECA had its first fund raiser, the donkey basketball game, shortly after Christmas break. The object of the game was for the players to shoot baskets while riding on donkeys, and the players were our very own teachers and administrators! Our DECA did very well at the DECA district contest and sent twenty-one members to the state contest. Those who placed at the state level included juniors Malissa Bishop and Brian Doud, and seniors Angie Childs, Paul Hansan, Beth Johnson, Melissa Judd and Michele Robinson. Our DECA as a whole placed fifth overall in the state. In addition to those placing at the state level, DECA qualified four members, junior Malissa Bishop, and seniors Angie Childs, Paul Hansan, and Beth Johnson, for the national DECA contest held in San Francisco, California. On the whole, DECA enjoyed a very successful year.

Foreign language clubs go all out

French, Spanish, and Latin Clubs really went all out. All three clubs participated in one activity after another.

French Club began the year with a Halloween party at junior Melissa Cooper's house. The home of senior Valerie Helms was the site of the annual French Club Christmas party. During homecoming week the French Club showed its support by making a banner.

Spanish Club also had a very busy year. They had a Spanish-style Christmas party at junior Diana Rossow's house complete with the traditional pinata. They also took time-out to watch UNDER FIRE, a movie concerning Nicaragua. Members supported our Eagles during football season by making a banner, too. Spanish Club also conducted its annual magazine sales which were very successful.

Latin Club had a really interesting year. They began the year with a pizza party at the Flying Tomato restaurant where they elected club officers. Charlie Bradford then hosted the Latin Club Halloween party. Everyone came in costumes and feasted on Halloween treats and hot cider. The Latin Club initiated all new members by having a "Slave Day." All old members drew the names of the new members who then became their slave for the next two days.

Skill Bowl competes at Brain Game

Seniors Todd Camesasca and Amanda Hoban collect food for the Honor Society's annual Christmas food drive. (jb)

There is only one word to describe the year that the 1984-1985 Honor Society had: busy! They began with a blood drive, which produced 45 units of blood. The Honor Society donated the blood to Ball Memorial Hospital. They sponsored a dance after a basketball game which was very profitable. Towards the middle of the year the Honor Society sold colorful stationery to raise money for the treasury. Almost all members of Honor Society participated in the sale, and all in all it was a very profitable sale. All members were treated to lunch at Chi-Chi's out of the treasury. This was a reward for the four long years of hard work and dedication. The Honor Society spent a very active year and it is obvious by their accomplishments that they were dedicated.

The 1984-1985 Skill Bowl team enjoyed a very active and profitable year. The Skill Bowl sponsored the first annual Snow Ball. This took place right before Christmas, and the commons was transformed into a "Winter Wonderland." The highlight of the Skill Bowl's year was participating in the Brain Game, which was hosted by Bob Gregory and televised on WTHR, Channel 13. Because of the new law requiring a specific number of hours in class, the Skill Bowl only met with Yorktown High School's Skill Bowl in season competition. Skill Bowl sponsor Mr. Richard Williams is very pleased with the performance and record. On the whole Skill Bowl team had a very rewarding year.

Junior David Royal squeezes a tennis ball to get the blood flowing for the Honor Society's blood drive. Looking a little apprehensive, David listens attentively to the Ball Memorial Hospital nurse's soothing assurances at that it will only feel like a mosquito bite. (bc)

The Skill Bowl members display smiles of relief and pride as they remember their fine performance against Lawrence North. It was obvious that the Skill Bowl feels a sense of accomplishment as they are the only team outside the Indianapolis area to participate in the Brain Game. (dgrr)

FFA and FHA have successful fruit, candy sales

The FHA led a very busy year. They began with a get-acquainted party held at senior president Sarah Hughes' house. As fall rolled around so did the annual Sadie Hawkins dance which the FHA put on with their usual enthusiasm. As always, the Sadies was a big success. Then came the annual money making project. The FHA sold candy bars and nearly every member participated. The candy bar sales brought in enough profits to have a beautifully decorated Sweetheart Ball. As usual the Sweetheart Ball was well-attended and turned out huge profits. At the end of the first semester the FHA sponsor Mrs. Sandy Gore turned in her resignation, as she had a new job. The FHA members, sad to see her go, were certainly going to miss her dedicated support. Before she left, Mrs. Gore received a going away party from the FHA members. All in all the FHA had a very successful year and hopes to repeat this success next year.

The FFA had a very "fruitful" year. They began by selling refreshments in the Eagles Nest for the State Soils Contest. Before Christmas they sold fruit. This sale brought in big profits for the club. The FFA met once a month all year. One of their biggest profits was due to selling poinsettias during the holidays. During the Easter holidays the FFA donated three Easter lilies to the auction. A total of one hundred Easter lilies were sold during the Easter holidays. The club sold a grand total of seven hundred and twenty-one cases of fruit. On April 25 FFA club hosted the local FFA banquet. Overall the FFA had a very successful year, and they hope to have the same success next year.

Cheerleaders, senior pin pals inspire spirit

The cheerleaders participated in a very active year. The "year" for the cheerleaders began early in June when they practiced almost every day for the State Fair contest. All their hard work paid off when they came in 10th place out of the 64 squads that competed. In order to support the cost of the football and basketball programs, the girls sold advertisements to various businesses and sponsors. The cheerleaders did their part in the homecoming activities by organizing an "obstacle course" in which one of the football players from each class was blindfolded and led through by the cheerleaders who gave them verbal instructions. Both the football and basketball teams were treated to breakfast fixed by the "generous" cheerleaders. As always the cheerleaders spent the whole year getting the fans fired up at all the games, and as always they succeeded tremendously.

As usual the seniors spent a lot of time supporting our Eagle wrestlers all the way up through the state wrestling meet in New Castle. They began the year giving the wrestlers many delicious home-baked treats before all dual meets. They also helped out at many dual meets and tournaments. As our Eagle wrestlers entered the sectional, the senior pin pals worked even harder attending all meets, making spirit banners for their wrestlers and providing a lot of support when the wrestlers needed it most. Our senior pin pals deserve a lot of respect and were honored at the last home wrestling meet for all the time and hard work they put into supporting our wrestlers this year.

Art Honor, FCA begin

The Art Honor Society organized its charter membership in the 1984-1985 school year. Members of this honor grouping are those students, who have displayed responsibility, strong citizenship characteristics and above average ability in the Art department. The members selected officers Kevin White and Mike Fitzgerald in a joint presidency; Brent Williams, vice-president; Tracy Smith, treasurer; Melissa Bernard, secretary; George Schumar, creative director; and Teresa Ramseyer, social services. The AHS took a field trip to Ball State in the fall. The students were given a guided tour of the art gallery and toured the facilities at the Ball State College of Art. In the spring, members traveled to Indianapolis to view the National Scholastic Art Awards Exhibition, where the work of member Andy Bieberich won two gold key awards and advanced to the National Scholastic competition where one of his drawings won an honorable mention.

The Pin Pals once again had a very productive year. Under the leadership of sponsor, Mrs. Dian Locke, the pin pals kept the wrestling spirit at a fever pitch. The pin pals continued their tradition of delighting wrestlers with treats of cookies, brownies, and candies. The pin pals helped build the wrestling spirit by making banners for all varsity wrestlers competing in the sectional. These banners were hung in the school, and as each wrestler advanced towards the State Finals, each victory claimed was added to that wrestler's banner. On the whole, the Pin Pals had a very busy year.

A new club was FCA, Fellowship of Christian Athletes. The club is sponsored by Mr. Stan Daugherty and Mr. Paul Keller. The group is comprised of many outstanding athletes who share the same beliefs and ideals. FCA met for dinner at president Steve Williams' house during the Christmas holidays. The club members hope to continue the club next year. Senior Pat Bowen Jr. summed up his opinion of the group, "We have a great time because Mr. Daugherty really knows how to talk to us!" The attendance is almost always 100%, and it is easy to see why.

CLAIMING OUR SPOT

High spots were claimed by many of the athletic teams. The football team won the CAC and got a birth in the play-offs, the boy's basketball team won the Jay County sectional, the girl's gymnastics team went to state, the boy's swim team captured the CAC and traveled to state, and the wrestling team captured their fifth straight state title. These teams gave the school something to cheer about. Everyone had a spot in the teams' victories. We showed our opponents what a team our school is. Athletics was an opportunity for many students to claim their spot.

Individual efforts unite to give them

Delta's varsity football team worked hard together to finish out the season with a 9-2 record, which enabled them to clinch a spot in the class "AAA" state playoffs. Delta ended up losing to number one Brownsburg, and wound up with a number five ranking in the UPI "AAA" poll. Coach Chuck DeNeal commented about the season by saying, "The 1984 football team's unselfish play, dedication, and family attitude were responsible for putting Delta back on the state map this past football season. I greatly appreciated being a part of that."

The 1984 Delta football team had many talented players, who helped the team tremendously and led them throughout the year with their individual efforts. Jeff Beall had 12 touchdowns, and rushed for 1062 yards, but he was unable to play against Highland or Brownsburg. Steve Williams had 10 touchdowns and ran for almost 800 yards. Quarterback Terry Faust threw 130 passes and completed 61 of them for 1074 yards. In defense, Raymie Hinds led the team with 19 solo tackles, Brian Clawson helped with his 92 assisted tackles, and David Edwards added another 64 assisted tackles. With their successful season, they received many awards and much recognition. Among those was an honorable mention in the AP All-State by Jeff Beall, the Bloomington Herald-Telephone All-State Academic Honorable Mention was given to Brad Dasher and Brian Brewer. Jeff Beall, Brian Clawson, Mike Conaway, Brian Cross, David Edwards, Ray Hinds, Shawn Matraw, Alex Petty, and Steve Williams were listed for the Classic Athletic Conference All-Conference. With all this combined talent the team pulled together as a family to have a very successful season.

Participation is the name of the game;

Although reserve football completed their season with a record of 1-6, the coaches felt the record was not indictive of the quality of the players on the team. Coach Chuck DeNeal commented, "We stressed participation in getting every player involved, that dressed for the game because we feel that game participation is very important at that level." This remark demonstrated how the reserve team gains much experience and develops a sportsmanship attitude in getting the opportunity to play.

The team was coached alternately by Mr. Chuck DeNeal, Mr. Steve Townsend, Mr. Ralph Cook, Mr. Doug Jacobs and Mr. Dick Conaway. In responding to the season the coaches viewed the team to have some outstanding players that they are counting on for next year's team success. A large part of their success will also be based on the groups off-season conditioning program.

Freshman football finished out the season with a winning record of 3-2. Coached by Mr. Paul Keller, Mr. Dan Morris, and Mr. Gary Huggler, the small team felt they had an extremely successful season with the offense as a major team strength. Mr. Keller said, "I was very pleased with the way the team practiced and played like winners. They gained pride and respect in themselves as the season progressed. We had a fun season while acquiring much experience." Scott Divens led the team with 11 touchdowns, and the team was quarterbacked by David Nichols. The freshman team clearly showed they have the potential to be a great class of football players.

Team unity, leadership play

Delta's varsity volleyball had a successful season of 15-9. The team had a nine match winning streak and won the last thirteen matches to win the season. Senior Julie Slusher stated, "I felt this volleyball season went exceptionally well, and the closeness of the team members played a big part in our success." Coach Luanne Larrison attributed the team's success to the leadership, that was created by the three seniors, which also caused team unity and unselfish play. Looking ahead to next year's season Coach Larrison commented, "Only graduating three seniors, we will have the same and hopefully an even better season record next year." Junior Joni Campbell led the team with 100 kills and Martha Cooper had 51 serving aces. Also sharing honors were Martha Cooper and Angie Childs, who were selected for the all county team. Martha Cooper felt it was a great year and added, "The season was successful because of the closeness and attitude of the team. Everyone had their individual goals, but the team's goals were most important and that helped us to play unselfishly."

Cross country season proved to be very essential in establishing a strong foundation for what appears to be an exciting upcoming three years. Although their season record was 1-7, the varsity team, of one senior, one sophomore and five freshmen ran with the attitude of team work instead of just on individual performance. Led by senior Brad Pippin, who finished with honors in most invitationals and won the meet against Highland, the team was shown much leadership. He set a good example for younger teammates and helped them frame a good attitude for their coming years. Coach Frank Bagienski reflected, "I'm looking forward with excitement to the next two or three years because of the talent and attitude of the eight freshmen and four sophomores on the team."

Delta's boy's tennis team had a rebuilding year in 1984 after losing six seniors from the previous year. They were under the new direction of Mrs. Pat Erwin, who is responding to the outcome of their season, remarked, "In spite of our 3-9 record, I feel that the team showed great improvement over the season, winning three of the last five matches and reaching the semi-finals of the Muncie Sectionals." Her comment further demonstrated the boys determination throughout the season and Coach Erwin stated that she is looking forward to working with next year's tennis team. The team was led by seniors Jeff Weaver, Kent Thomas, and Chris Davis. Co-captains Jeff Weaver and Kent Thomas reflected on the season and commented, "The team worked real hard. Teams improve records;

Through a considerable amount of hard work and a new coach, the girl's golf team finished out the season undefeated. The team ended up 11-0, which is their best record ever in Delta history. Under the new direction of Kim Jones, the girls placed first in CAC, third in sectionals and ninth in regionals. Junior Jennifer Hobson led the team as medalist throughout the year, and Heidi Hansan placed third in regionals and was the only Delta golfer to go on to state. Other varsity members on the team include; Stephanie Hineman, Dee Dee Lawson, Jennifer Hobson, and Rhonda Mifflin. Senior Dee Dee Lawson stated, "I was glad that we did so well my last year. I feel that our new coach, Kim Jones, had a positive effect on our team and was a major factor in our achievements." The team will lose two of its seniors, but next year the team will come back with more experience and have a stronger foundation to hopefully lead them to a season just as successful as this one."

The girl's swimming team had an excellent season, ending with a winning record of 9-3, which proved to be the second best season ever in Delta history. Seniors led the way with Kim Foltz, who placed fifth in the 500 free, and Patty Kosar, who was fourth in sectional diving, to help finish out their season with a fifth place in the sectionals. Patty Kosar, commenting about the season, said, "It was a lot of hard work, but it was all worth it. I think everyone really improved and worked hard to meet the goals they set for themselves." At the end of the season Kim Foltz was awarded both mental attitude and most valuable swimmer awards, Patty Kosar received most valuable diver, and Leslie Burton was presented with the most valuable freshman award. Varsity improves greatly throughout season;

The boy's varsity basketball team changed their season around and won seven of their last ten games to end with a record of 11-12. The Eagles got off to a slow start and many of the games they lost were within a few points. After the Pendleton Heights game the team pulled together to finish out with a really strong year. Coach Stan Daugherty exclaimed, "I have never seen a team improve so much in the final six weeks of a season. By the end of the year we were truly a championship team." Delta defeated Blackford in the Sectionals with a last second shot by Terry Faust to win the right to go on to Regionals, but they were defeated by one point in the Anderson Wigwam in a very close game by Kokomo. Ron Hendricks was named to the all CAC, all county, all sectional, and all regional teams. Todd Tomlin and Terry Faust were also named to the all sectional team. The team was led by senior Ron Hendricks in both scoring and rebounds. He averaged 13.2 points per game and 9.0 rebounds per game. Senior Terry Faust added, "Our record didn't say much, but at least we were able to play at the Wigwam." Seniors on the team include: Jeff Weaver, John Williamson, Ron Hendricks, Carl Greene, Terry Faust, Todd Tomlin, Brian Cross, and William Paschal.

The Delta freshmen basketball team had an outstanding year with ten wins and only three losses. Their season was a team effort and they had many talented players. Ted Hayden moved up to the reserve basketball team after Christmas break and Scott Divens, Scott Bookmyer, and David Nichols joined him after their season was over. Coach Doug Jacobs commented about the season, "I felt we had a really good year. Our record was 10-3, and a couple of the games we could have won, but we were happy with how the season went. Our strengths were that we were consistent, and the team attitude towards playing was another major factor in our wins." Ted Hayden averaged 9.1 rebounds per game and had a total of 91. Scott Divens was the leading scorer with a 9.2 average per game. Scott Bookmyer stated, "We had a good season because we played well together as a team, and everyone helped contribute to our success."

Delta's junior varsity boys' basketball team improved throughout the season to close out with a winning record of 10-7. Before Christmas their record was two and five, but after break they came back and showed much determination and aggressiveness to win eight of their last ten games. Their coach, Mr. Paul Keller, remarked, "I thought the kids really improved. After Christmas break we came back and shot 47% from the field, which is excellent for a J.V. team, to win six games in a row. Our team strengths were that we were aggressive and fairly quick, and when we learned to play with some control, we were pretty effective." For the year, Mike Painter led in scoring with an 8.1 average, and he was second in assists with 41. Robb Painter had 39 rebounds, and Darren Gourley led the team in assists with 49. Sophomore Mike Painter affirmed the season and said, "Our record was not indicative of the potential that our team really possessed. I think we worked together well and by the end of the season we pulled together to finish out the year really strong."

Girls use spirit, enthusiasm

Finishing the year with a 9-10 record, the girls basketball team showed much determination and spirit throughout their season. The Eagles had a very balanced scoring attack and relied heavily on their tough defense. Heidi Hansan led the team in scoring, and Robin Grimes had the most rebounds. They placed second in County and finished out their season real strong by reaching the final game of sectionals, which they lost to Wes Del by three points. Senior Robin Grimes stated, "Even though we didn't have a winning season, the experiences that I gained from our wins and losses and the friends that I made, helped make the season a real success. I personally feel that we began to show our true potential in the latter part of the season, but we still didn't perform as well as we could have." Seniors leading the way were: Erin Carpenter, Martha Cooper, Robin Grimes, Josie Miller, Clarisse Mills, and Christi Richards. Looking on to next year, Coach Cawood commented, "We should be very good next year because we're returning six lettermen and two starters."

Coach Ervin said, "The key to winning for us has been good team play and consistency. I felt I could play any combination of players and still have a successful team." Wrestlers make it 5 in '85

Delta finished another exciting year in wrestling to accomplish something that no other high school in Indiana has before. For an unprecedented consecutive year they have won their fifth high school state wrestling title. The Eagles had a more difficult time in successfully defending their crown and the state title became a battle between Delta and Muncie South, and the final round matches of Craig Campbell and South's Tim Abbott decided the championship. Craig proved triumphant and won the 119-pound title for Delta, and Tim Abbott was second at 126; thus, Delta continued their dynasty with a narrow five point margin win. Along with his state title Craig Campbell also received the very distinguished Ward E. Brown Mental Attitude Award and was voted "Outstanding Wrestler of the State Tourney". "I got off to a slow start," Craig stated, "but once I realized what I had to do to achieve my goal, I went all out and didn't hold anything back." Coached by Don Patton and Don Puckett, the Eagles had a 17-1 record and five tournament victories. They were not quite as experienced and of the seven state qualifiers Craig was the only senior. Sophomore Andy Parkison placed third at the 98-pound class and ended with a record of 34-4. Junior Trent McCormick was fourth at 185 and had a great record of 36-3. The other qualifiers were David Suits at 105, Mark Crowe at 138, Randal Hayes at 145, and Jeff Brewer at 167. Looking ahead Coach Patton commented, "We have a lot of experienced wrestlers coming back next year. With the right attitude and hard work — Delta could again accomplish something that no other school has ever done before."

Coach Lewis stated, "We had a very inexperienced squad, but we made up for our inexperience with hard work. Only about four of the freshmen on the squad had ever seen a wrestling mat. So I felt we had a great season and it was the most gratifying one since I've been here." Wrestlers receiving awards were: Dale Lawson with most team points; and Tim Harper with most wins, the academic award, and most take downs. When asked about the season, Dale Lawson commented, "We had a lot of first year wrestlers but it didn't matter because they all were willing to work hard to win and by the end of the season we didn't seem like such an inexperienced team."

The often overshadowed reserve wrestling team plays an important role in helping our varsity team maintain their number one standing. They work very hard with little recognition in trying to become the State Champions of tomorrow. The reserve team is also responsible for training with the varsity wrestlers and their efforts make Delta wrestling a strong program. About this year's team, Coach Don Puckett said, "I have been very satisfied with the reserve wrestling team. It's always tough not to be the number one at your position, but these boys realize that tomorrow will be their chance. Their willingness to wait and work hard is to be commended." For the reserve team Shane Neal had the most take downs and Duane Morris led the team in most falls and in team points. They came in first at the Decatur Central Inv., second in the Delta Reserve Inv., third at the Jay County Triple Dual, and ended with a season record of 5-2. Sophomore Duane Morris commented, "I feel the reserve wrestling team deserves credit in helping Delta maintain their reigning crown as state champs, as we are looking onto next year for our chance in the spotlight."

The optional team suffered only one loss to Pendleton and placed second in both the CAC and Sectional. Two gymnasts, Jill McClaren and Tracy Smith, went on to regionals, and from there Jill McClaren qualified for state in the "all around" competition. The intermediate team lost only two close meets and placed second in CAC and third in Sectional. Mrs. Parris had been assistant coach for three years and remarked on her first year as head coach, "We had a great season, and attribute that to the overall team enthusiasm. I think that our wins were a total team effort. Only losing four seniors, we'll be back just as strong or even stronger next year." Winning awards at the end of the year were: Jill McClaren as most valuable optional gymnast, Holly Shores as most valuable intermediate gymnast, Lisa Winningham with the most improved, and Tara-Lynn Patton with the mental attitude award. Graduating seniors include Dawn Watson, Tara-Lynn Patton, Michelle Jameson, and Holly Shores. Tara-Lynn Patton commented, "This year I felt like there wasn't one person that the team could depend on, so we had to pull together for a team effort."

swimming makes school history with best season

Seniors Sean Lewis and Tim Ashby join in for a victory chant. (gf)

Delta's boys swimming team had a great season! They finished out 13-1, which is the best swimming dual meet record in the school's history. Many school records were set. Among these were: Ryan Wantz in the I.M., 500 and 100 free; Mike Klein in the 100 back and 50 free; and Ryan Wantz, Mike Klein, Sean Lewis, and Tad Borchers in the 400 free relay. Coach Tom Devine commented about the team, "We had a good group of seniors, who helped us with leadership, and a good group of freshmen and sophomores, who provided us with depth. Everybody improved and that was the key to our success." This year was the first time ever to send boy swimmers to the state meet. Senior Sean Lewis stated, "I feel that this years boy's swim team was based on hard work, big goals, and a building talent that has put Delta swimming on the map forever." Next year's team will be young, but they are a lot of hard workers who have a positive attitude, which makes for an excellent outlook on their future season.

First year coaches Boyd, Ervin

Senior Pat Lutz uses facial expressions to coach the ball into the hole.

Former Delta golfer, Bill Boyd, undertook the position as boy's head golf coach and led them to a winning season of 11-4 for the 1985 year. The new coach brought some new changes and most of the golfers felt that they played and worked together better as a team as a result. Senior Senior Paul Hansan received the honor of making all conference by shooting a 79 at the CAC. The team placed fourth in CAC and also fourth at Sectionals. Sophomore Rich Allen set a new school record in a dual meet by scoring a low 32 for nine holes at the Lakeview Golf Course. Paul Hansan stated, "We are a very easy going group and this helps our playing. This is probably our best team in my four years here at Delta, and I'm happy to be a part of it." The team will be graduating only three seniors who include: Tommy Kinghorn, Pat Lutz, and Paul Hansan.

Even though practicing senior Martha Cooper still works hard.

The girl's tennis team was under the new coaching of Miss Pat Ervin. The young team did not do quite as well as they would have liked, and part of this was due to the fact that five of the seven varsity team members had never played on the varsity team before. Coach Ervin remarked, "We made a lot of progress this year, and the girls gave a great effort. I'm sure this will be reflected in our record next season." Although the record was only one win and twelve losses, most of the girls felt it was a building year and the team will only be losing two seniors. But both seniors Martha Cooper and Valarie Helms provided a lot of leadership for the younger girls and contributed much team spirit. Valarie stated, "Our record didn't show Miss Ervin's coaching ability at all! She's a great coach and I've learned a lot from her."

Boys' varsity baseball closes

Junior Rob Buck warms up for a game.

The boy's varsity baseball squad rounded out the year at 11-10. They lost to a tough Muncie Central team with a score of 1-6, which destroyed their hopes of moving into a Regional spot. Senior William Paschal commented on the team, "I felt that we had a lot of depth on the team, and we had more team spirit than we have had on the varsity in the past." The team will be losing a good deal of seniors, but they have many experienced juniors and a strong reserve team to fall back on and rely for the 1986 season. The team was coached by Jim Cawood and he was assisted by Bob Edwards. Mr. Cawood had no comment for the 1985 baseball season.

Trent McCormick guards home base and tries to prevent the score.

Reserve baseball close season

Junior Jeff Masters awaits for his sign from the catcher.

Delta's reserve baseball team closed the year with an outstanding record of 12-2. This team often receives little acknowledgement as they play under the shadow of the varsity team, but this year they proved that they have much talent and deserve recognition as such. The young team worked extremely hard and set their goals high in order to finish with such an excellent season and to work towards building up a strong foundation for the preceding season. The team was coached by Bill Yates. Sophomore Darrin Gourley reflected back on the season, "We hit the ball exceptionally well, which resulted in us winning twelve of our fourteen games. Our pitching staff also did a great job." Everyone was very pleased with how the team played and have high expectations for a record of equivalence or better in the 86 future.

Individual efforts

Freshman Hope Ewing thrusts her weight forward to throw the shotput.

The girls' track team under the coaching of Mrs. Debbie Wright and Mrs. Sally Wright, ended with a season not quite as successful as they would have liked, but both coaches felt it was a most gratifying one as they could watch the young team gain experience and improvement. They finished second in the county and fifth in CAC and their season record was two wins and four losses. Senior Julie Slusher stated, "This was one of my most enjoyable track seasons. Even though we didn't have a winning record, I felt that I gained much self satisfaction in working with the younger girls." The only record broken this season was the 300 meter hurdles by senior Robin Grimes.

make team's success

Delta's boys' track team had a good year with many of its individuals putting forth good efforts at each meet to make their own individual and team success. It was the teams eleventh consecutive year to win the county title, and they placed first in the Elwood Relays, and fourth at CAC. The boys ended with a 4-3 record, and both Coach Frank Baginski, and Don Morris felt it was a positive season. Three records were broken this year. Todd Tomlin set a new high jump record at six feet, five and a half inches, and also in the high hurdles with a time of 14.88. Curt Cutforth broke the old 200 meter dash with a new time of 22.79. Senior Todd Tomlin commented, "This year's team seemed to be a lot more aware of their goals and what it would take to meet them. We pulled together to accomplish all that we could for the 1985 season."

Students show happiness, tears on final day

Not only the class of '85, but the entire student body accomplished a lot towards sports, academics, and organizations. Athletics closed out with winning seasons, and organizations closed the year with parties. Even when things started to get hectic after spring break, the students still hung on. Each student worked toward individual goals as well as group goals. Finals were taken, lockers were cleaned out, books were returned, and of course tears were shed. The seniors bid farewell to their happy high school days at the senior convo the last day of school. Many gave their "last" hugs while others were glad to leave for summer vacation. Some felt they didn't want to let go of their high school years while others looked eagerly to their future. The student body worked hard in claiming their spot.

Seniors Brad Haggard and Raymie Hinds get a little practice playing "daddy" for a day. (dgrr)

Look out Charlie's Angels! Here come seniors Beth Johnson, Lori Ferguson, and Natalie Boyd. (jb)

Junior Kecia Holly and senior Christeena Collins get caught with their hands in the cookie jar. (dgrr)

To Edna Flannery, custodian, we thank you and wish you good luck in your retirement.

Honor Society members receive flowers and their gold tassels at Senior Honors Night.

The graduating class eagerly awaits the awarding of the diplomas.

Selectones and senior gold choir members sing about a "Brand New Day."

With memories, anticipation students are Claiming Their Spot

Seniors Shannon Henry and John Adams look exuberant that graduation night has finally come.

This yearbook is dedicated to the class of 1985. May you have much happiness and success.
